

DECLARATION OF INEBRATION

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one group to employ certain measures so as to obtain the rights to which the laws of nature and of natures God entitle them. A decent respect to the aforementioned group should be tendered by its fellow actors on the stage of life.

As members of the association "For the Propagation and the Preservation of the American Distillers of Liquid Spirits", we the aforementioned group do hereby specify what these measures should hitherto entail.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of liquid stimulants.

The history of the present High-acres Campus is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations; all having in direct object, the absolute tyranny over those individuals who satisfy their drive for refreshment by noon-time imbibements. To prove this, let the facts be presented to a candid world.

Our present commonwealth administration has willfully and purposefully neglected the construction of a thruway to a certain oasis of refreshment in a desert of abject sobriety, which lies within five hundred yards, due south of our beloved cultural home.

The impediments has caused many of our members to take the drastic and unwarranted step into the world of total obstinence.

Whereas, in our esteemed opinion, if the construction of the aforementioned thruway, cannot be realized; we do not beg, we do not ask, we do not supplicate; we order, and we deem it mandatory for the re-location of the aforementioned establishment within a respectable distance of our esteemed halls of learning.

Never try to keep up with the Jones- after all, they might be newlyweds!

Furthermore, if our demands are not realized, embarrassing consequences will occur which will cause shame to be showered upon this "Collosus of the North" who has violated innumerable reciprocal trade agreements with our friendly neighbor to the South.

We therefore, the representatives of the above-mentioned group, in general Congress assembled, appealing to the supreme judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, I hereby on this 29th day of October in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and fifty nine, to the glorification of our cherished cause, do pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honors.

Signed:

A. U. A.
(Alcoholics Unanimous of America)

SWEENEY

Sweeney was ^Acollegiate hypochondriac. Hardly a day went by that he didn't show up at Mrs. K's office with a sore throat or an aching back. He had quite a reputation with the nurse and profs.

Sweeney was good-hearted nevertheless, and when I had to go to Mrs. K. with an infected foot he carried my briefcase for me. It was raining so he stuffed my briefcase under his raincoat.

We no sooner got in sight of the nurse's office when I heard a prof shout out to Mrs. K., "Here comes Sweeney again. Now he's pregnant!"

"I ain't complainin', you unnerstand," said the rooster as he placed the ostrich egg in front of the hen. "I just wanted you to see the kind of work they're doin' in some parts of the world."