Junior College Delegates Hear Challenge From Attorney L. G. Feldman

A challenge to the youth of America to assume responsible roles of leadership was issued by Attorney Louis G. Feldmann on the evening of November 4, 1960, as he addressed some seventy-five state-wide delegates from sixteen junior colleges at the Highacres Campus of the Pennsylvania State University.

Speaking during a dinner meeting of the two-day Pennsylvania Junior College Convention, Mr. Feldmann declared that there are unlimited opportunities and a crying need for youth to take over the reins in science, government, and other fields. Mr. Feldmann warned that leaders must have the courage to face persecution, frustration, and insults. "You must have the courage to be unpopular," he said.

Mr. Thomas J. Kidd, Highacres Union Building manager, delivered the keynote address. He described the history of the conference and stressed the importance of forming a permanent organization, since past meetings were not closely knit.

Terry Lindenmuth, president of the Student Council, greeted the delegates, which included students and faculty advisors.

Mr. William E. Schneider made several comments in welcoming the delegates and made it clear that Highacres was at their service during their two-day stay here.

Workshops were held on Friday evening, November 4 and on Saturday morning, November 5 to try to work out the problems of a permanent organization and to set up a working organization. The first day's program was climaxed by an informal dance and "mixer."

The discussion groups included the following:

Constitution — Formulation and organization of a Congress of Pennsylvania Junior Colleges and writing of a constitution for the Congress; Levi Kishbaugh, chairman; Donata Matteo, co-chairman.

Publications and Services — Planning the nature of Congress publications and deciding what services the office of the Congress shall provide its membership; Robert Zelnick, chairman; Paul Miller, co-chairman.

Finances — Establishment of financial policies for the Congress, fiscal year, dues structure, budgets, and other revenues; John Mikulak, chairman; James Cataldo, co-chairman.

Annual Conferences — Planning the nature, scope and programs for future conferences; William Morgan, chairman; Howard Keiper, co-chairman.

Delegates in general seemed quite impressed with the outcome of the conference. An executive-board was elected. The members certainly seem quite responsible ones.

Executive Board — Thomas J. Kidd (Hazleton), Executive Secretary; Charles Hostetler (Hershey), President; Robin Blakeslee (Dubois), President-elect; William Morgan (Hazleton), Vice-president; Bernadine Vota (Mt. Aloysius), Secretary-treasurer.

Credit is forthcoming to Mr. Kidd for his excellent handling of the whole affair and his demonstrated leadership during the course of the final plenary session. This prompted visiting delegates to nominate him by acclamation to handle the affairs of the Congress for the remainder of the academic year when a successor would be chosen. The Collegian takes this opportunity to give credit where it is due.

Workshop leaders reported that most of the visiting delegates were most cooperative, and this accounted for a successful conference.

A meeting of the executive board is scheduled for later in November and is expected to stimulate the progress made by this conference in developing better and more cooperation among the Junior Colleges throughout Pennsylvania.

Junior College Dance

The Union Building was the setting for another of the school's popular dances on Friday evening, November 4, 1960. Held in conjunction with the Junior College Conference, the dance proved to be the most successful to date.

From 9 to 11:30 p. m., the students and delegates to the Conference danced to the delightful music of the Four Sharps. Attire was casual, and refreshments were served.

Everyone is wondering who put up the center ornament. Do you know?
