

FLAG RAISING AT HIGHACRES

The second of four Americanism programs sponsored by Hazleton Post 76, American Legion, was held at the Penn State center, Highacres, where a 50 star flag which had flown over the national capitol building was presented.

Edward McGeehan, Americanism chairman of Post 76 and Adjutant William Toennes were in charge of the program,

Harry Kenvin, commander of the Post, presented the flag to William Petruska, president of the Student government.

Kenvin spoke on the liberty of our great republic and the history of those who gave their lives for our freedom.

Mr. Petruska thanked the Americanism committee for the honor bestowed upon Penn State Center at the program which was held at the flagpole before a full assemblage of students.

Frank Kostos, administrative head of the center, praised the legionnaires for the program in creating active Americanism and practicing good citizenship.

EDITORIAL

As the prospect of a month-long vacation draws near, and the Christmas season lurks behind every department store Santa, the time seems ideal to take stock of what you've done and how you've done it in this past school term.

The freshmen know what is expected of them and what they can expect from College. The uncertainty is gone; the novelty has worn off. If, perhaps, the results of this term were not entirely satisfactory, this month's vacation is a good opportunity for them to appraise their goals and make any necessary changes in their study program.

The sophomores will welcome this month's break also. Certainly accustomed to college by now, they, nevertheless, have much to consider in respect to their increasingly difficult courses and their all-important choice of a major field of study and future vocation in life.

Above all, this holiday season is, of course, one of peace and joy and love, a time of merriment and celebration, a time to rest our bodies and minds in the anticipation of a memorable holiday. With this thought foremost in our minds, we wish to the students and faculty a most MERRY CHRISTMAS.

DEAR EDITORS:

This season there will be no intramural basketball teams. The intramural football league has collapsed.

These are just two instances of the lack of student interest at the Hazleton Campus in activities promoted by the SGA.

As these games take place during the school day, there is no excuse for more students not taking part in the athletic activities at Highacres.

The sports program is certainly diversified enough to please anyone's taste. Chess, Ping Pong, Football, Bowling, Basketball are all scheduled.

One solution, perhaps, would be more active spectator support. This would encourage others to work harder to improve the sports program.

Last Meeting Of Glee Club

The Glee Club at Highacres has disbanded for the holidays. It will resume activities in January.

The members of this group as well as the Director, Mr. Burton Hall, were quite disappointed with the attendance during the Fall Term. It is sincerely hoped that next term those who are interested in joining will do so.

Mr. Hall not only directs the club, but also coaches the members in the proper use of their voices.

THANKSGIVING DANCE SUCCESS

Turkey, pumpkin pie, old friends, and rock and roll made a delightful mixture for PSU students over the Thanksgiving holiday week-end.

On the eve of the big day, November 22, a dance was held on campus to the music of the Red Diamonds. This lively local group sent students into a happy, thankful holiday whirl of Limbo, twisting, and cha-cha that, more likely than not, contributed immensely to hearty appetites on the following day.
