

ESTHER NEMETH CROWNED MAY QUEEN AT HIGHACRES

Perfect weather and precise timing by the lilacs, rhododendron, and the coeds of The Pennsylvania State University's Hazleton Campus made the annual May Ball held Saturday evening, May 23, in the Student Union Building, a most aesthetic event.

This year the ball sparkled with the bright colors of "Manhattan at Midnight." The decorations were a tribute to those students who gave freely of their time during the preceding weeks to create the setting. Music by the Crescendos contributed to the atmosphere of gaiety.

Esther Nemeth, president of the Theta Sigma Pi Sorority, was crowned Queen of the May Ball by last year's queen, Kay Yenko.

The actual coronation was preceded by a court processional which included: Geneva Avillion, crown bearer; Karen Kreitzberger, key bearer; Paulette Vetter, rose bearer; Janet Astleford, heart bearer; and Molly Boyer, scroll bearer. Carol Yurkovic served as maid of honor, and Anna Marie Petras was the second attendant.

The honor guard escorting the queen's attendants was comprised of Thomas Tucker, Donald Girard, John Mumaw, John Houser, Jack Martin, Anthony Molinari, and Frank Tito. Jeff Hunchar served as the queen's partner.

To climax the coronation, the queen and members of her court danced to "The Emperor Waltz."

The queen and members of her court were chosen by a center-wide election of student body and faculty members held under the auspices of the Highacre's Theta Sigma Pi Sorority. Mrs. Elizabeth Bodenstein serves as advisor for this organization.

The May Day tradition began at the Hazleton Center in 1945, and is sponsored annually by the sorority. When the Penn State Campus moved to Highacres in 1950, the May Day celebration combined the coronation of the queen with May Day rites and the Queen's Ball.

The affair was open to Hazleton Campus students and their dates, faculty members, their wives and friends.

Refreshments were served following the ceremony by the Campus' Women's Auxiliary. The coronation spectacle was witnessed by more than 200 guests assembled in the Highacres' Student Union Building.
