A newspaper without support is similar to a submarine with screen doors. In this case the submarine sinks and the newspaper becomes extinct. The Colligian is such a newspaper. We all realize that every student is carrying a heavy load, but we are sure that after time has been taken out for studying not all of the one hundred and sixty-eight hours of the week have been used.

For a paper to progress it needs many things: news, typists, reporters, photographers, printers, and other interested persons. The Colligian is lacking in all. The question asked is this: "Do you, the student body, want The Colligian?" If you do, why not show it. We want those people who are interested in keeping this newspaper to participate in its making. You see if support is not forthcoming, the Colligian may not be either.

You are probably asking why we are making all this fuss. We are making all this noise because the Colligian has a small staff who is supposed to look for the news, report it, and then see that the paper is gotten out on time. We try, but we can't do it all. Your help is needed. The Colligian is your newspaper.

We are hoping that YOU will attend our meetings in the Colligian Office and extend YOUR services to YOUR newspaper. The meetings are held Tuesday, 4th period and the Office is in the basement of the Main Building, near the drawing rooms.

It is the Colligian's aim to put out a bi-weekly newspaper; printed on campus. But, if we don't get more help soon we may be going out of circulation.

Remember, without your support the Colligian will become ancient history. Please, show your interest.

able jokes lately? Why not share them?
