

EDITORIAL

As a citizen of the United States of America, you should make it your duty to know how your federal government operates and who the important officials are. Likewise, a Penn State student should be concerned with the operation of his Student Government Association. A Penn State student should be acquainted with the purposes of S. G. A. He should also know who the S. G. A. members are.

The Student Government Association is an organization for the expression of student opinions and attitudes at the Hazleton Campus. The S. G. A. regulates the non-academic behavior of students, and it created, maintains, and regulates, promotes and coordinates all group functions and activities of the student body.

All fulltime, undergraduate students are regular members of S. G. A. All part-time undergraduate students are associate members. All regular and associate members may vote for the elective officers, may vote on proposals to amend the constitution, and speak at all meetings of S.G.A. They may, also, sign any petition associated with S.G.A. functions.

Any regular member who has met the qualifications set forth in the constitution and by-laws is eligible for election or appointment to office in the S. G. A.

In following issues of the Collegian, we shall try to acquaint you with the officers and members of S. G. A. by means of a column entitled, "Know Your S. G. A." The column will include the latest S. G. A. news and interviews with S. G. A. members.
