

After a preliminary game of "Who has the President's gavel?", the meeting was supposedly started.

The meeting was opened by the President saying that he hoped this meeting could be run by parliamentary procedure, which would curtail the utter chaos which prevailed at previous meetings. Landro, our S.G.A. president, then proceeded to read the minutes of the last meeting which seemed to center around a heated controversy over the all important business of what should be put on dance publicity signs.

Landro, then, stated the new business which was a plan to introduce the students, especially the S.G.A., to the S.G.A. Constitution and to parliamentary procedure, of which the S.G.A. seemed entirely ignorant.

Tony Greco, chairman of the Student Union Board, asked for the floor and stated that either the S.G.A. back them up on rules for dress at dances, that they had previously ruled upon, or rescind the vote and delegate all responsibility to the SUB. With little further ado, a vote was taken and the motion rescinded,

Now, in contradiction to the above hope of following parliamentary procedure, they discussed the matter. The discussion revealed that the S.G.A. had just executed an action in complete contradiction to its Constitution. It was discovered that the SUB is just an administrative arm of the S.G.A. and it was impossible for the S.G.A. to divorce itself from its own responsibility.

Then, Landro adjourned the meeting, but it seemed he could not do this, because the issue was still left in the air; this problem was overcome by tabling the proposition until student opinion was known.

After attending this unbelievable charade, I no longer wonder why

S.G.A. is ineffective and out of contact with the students. I only wonder how they have accomplished what little they have.

COLLEGIAN GETS RESULTS

On Monday, November 7, 1966, the S.U.B. loudspeakers blurted that the Collegian did no research and the facts. Besides noting that we must have done some research to get the facts we supposedly twisted, we have only one comment. We were pleased to hear the "Voice of High-acres" make a positive, though erroneous, statement. The Collegian must take credit for this vast improvement.

Peering through the fog, "Our Man Flint" caught the dark outlines of a truck parked on the Highacres driveway. Creeping closer, our super sleuth saw a sight for which even his wildest dreams did not prepare him. Two custodians were shoveling dirt in the holes which put our beloved freeway! Thanks to Collegian prodding, the administration made the first step toward solving a critical problem.

THE COLLEGIAN GETS RESULTS!

HIGHACRES COLLEGIAN

Editor: C. Young

Co-editors: T. Roberts & W. Kadelak

Staff: D. Corradini, E. Kelly, M. Sigal,

V. Johnson, E. Madden, L.

S. Williams, I. V. League

BURMA SHAVE