

SELECTIVE SERVICE

In accordance with regulations prescribed by the Selective Service Military Act of 1967, University officials will no longer report class standing and grades of students to Selective Service Local Boards.

The new legislation provides for student deferment to be based primarily on enrollment of the student and normal progress toward his degree.

To assist the student in requesting an undergraduate student deferment the Selective Service System has devised SSS Form 104, which was made available to all students at Fall Term registration.

The undergraduate completes and files this form with his Local Board only once while he is a student.

The student seeking a deferment requests that the Records Office keep his Local Board informed on his status.

This month the University will report to the Local Board, advising the Board of the student's full-time enrollment.

Following the termination of the current academic year on Sept. 24, 1968, the University again will report advising the Local Board as to whether or not the student is full-time. The report will also include statements on his progress and expected graduation date.

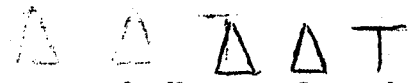

Graduate students are required to use a letter rather than the SSS Form 104 to request deferments by their Local Board. They should also report in person to the Record Office to request the University to advise their Local Board of their status.

Since the designation of critical occupational areas has not yet been completed the existing deferments for full-time graduate students or those with assistantships will continue through the present academic year.

A student receiving an induction notice issued while a full-time student may be eligible for a postponement of induction or the classification of I-S.

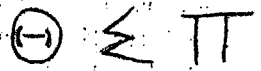

Requests for such deferments, or appeals are a matter between the student and his Local Board.

On Monday, September 25, the first meeting of the Delta Delta Tau Fraternity of the Hazleton Campus of Penn State was held. The main purpose for this meeting was the election of officers. Those elected were: Howard Schell, President, Nick Danchak, Vice President, Carl Faust, Treasurer, and Vince Dandini, Secretary. George Caliva, a member of the faculty at Highacres, is the advisor of the organization.

Delta Delta Tau is a fraternity of students enrolled in the Associate Degree program of Drafting and Design Technology at Hazleton. Its main functions are to encourage fellowship and unanimity among the DDT students, to establish a sense of pride in their curriculum and their school and to acquaint D-Tech freshmen with the program through help from upperclassmen in the various areas of study involved in the Design Technology program. Delta Delta Tau is the only fraternity of its name in the Pennsylvania State University system.

The informal initiation of new members into the Theta Sigma Pi Sorority was held October 9, and the formal initiation was held on October 12 in the SUB Lounge. After the program, nominations were held for the positions of Vice-President, Treasurer, and Publicity Chairman.

The annual hayride date has been set for Saturday, November 4. Arrangements for the occasion are being made.

The annual UNICEF Drive will be held on October 27. Collections will be taken at the SUB tables and at the Friday night dance.
