Approve Phy. Ed. Building Plans

University Park — The Board of Trustees of The Pennsylvania State University has approved sketch plans for construction of $1,045,000 physical education building at the Beaver Campus of the University.

The multi-purpose structure, featuring a 15,300 square-foot gymnasium, will be built by the General State Authority after preliminary and final plans are completed and approved.

The sketch plans call for the building to include, in addition to the gym and basketball court:

An 800-square foot classroom; two auxiliary areas for either classroom or athletic instruction; men, women and team or faculty locker rooms; laundry facilities, equipment storage, first aid and training room; faculty office space; and a 1,300-square foot civil defense shelter and storage area.

The building could also be used for large assemblies, lecture and artist engagements, or related extracurricular activities.

The gymnasium, to be located in the southwest corner of the campus, will become the hub of the Beaver recreation area, which also will include a large athletic field and basketball, handball and tennis courts, explains Dr. Joseph P. Giusti, director of the Campus.

Two new buildings presently are under construction at the campus — a $1.1 million residence hall and a $713,000 food service building.

TOPF ACCEPTS NEW POSITION

Mel Topf, instructor in English at Highacres, announced that he has accepted a position at the newly constructed Roger Williams Liberal Arts College in Bristol, R. I.

When asked his reason for leaving the Hazleton Campus, Topf replied, "My main professional reason for leaving is the lack of opportunity to teach advanced literature courses here."

Mr. Topf, who has been at the Hazleton Campus for the past two years, commented on the student body. "They are much worse as students than those at University Park, but they are much more interesting as individuals, more worth getting to know."

"They have no class," he added.

Mr. Topf is from Brooklyn, N. Y. He is an alumnus of Long Island University and New York University. He will receive his Ph. D. in English this June from Penn State. His special area of interest is the 18th century British novel.

Mr. Topf has chosen to accept the new position at Roger Williams College because "It's an all-new college, and I can help design the English curriculum there."

In his evaluation of Highacres, Topf stated, "It has enormous potential."

PUSEY DEFENDS OUSTER ACTION

(Standard-Speaker)

The president of Harvard University Friday defended his call for police to oust student demonstrators from a school building Thursday as 20 per cent of the Ivy League school's student body attended a rally to protest the action.

President Nathan M. Pusey said the students had broken into confidential files and "did not intend to bargain."

The developments at Harvard marked a day of nationwide student disorders in which undergraduates at one school called for the resignation of the college president and youths at another revealed plans for a boycott of the student union.

At Harvard, Pusey said, "The occupiers had already begun to rifle and duplicate the faculty personnel files and financial records."

Some 400 police were called to clear University Hall. Almost 200 students were arrested and more than three dozen hurt.

Earlier, Franklin L. Ford, dean of the faculty, said reproductions of confidential documents — including some involving the Central Intelligence Agency — were published in an underground newspaper.

Ford said one of the letters stolen from the file was that of a Harvard headmaster informing Ford that he was a consultant to the CIA. Another was a copy of a proposal by Harvard to the CIA for a project to be carried out by Harvard.
