

The Highacres Collegian

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF THE HAZLETON CAMPUS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY

VOLUME 9, NUMBER 1

HAZLETON, PA. 18201

OCTOBER 8, 1973

NEW DIRECTOR APPOINTED

WRITING CLINIC ANNOUNCED

The English Department is pleased to announce the establishment of a Writing Clinic on the Highacres Campus, and would like to briefly explain the purpose and functioning of the Clinic.

Primarily, the Writing Clinic is an organic outgrowth of the "new English I," intended to provide a facility for students with serious deficiencies in the area of basic grammar and composition to find help. As such, the function of the Clinic is remedial rather than rhetorical, and is intended to deal with specific identifiable problems. (It is not intended to provide a general refresher course in grammar or to replace English I or any other course.)

On a broader level, the Writing Clinic offers a service to the student body (as well as to the faculty and staff) in general, providing an institution to which any member of the Highacres community may appeal for aid in problems dealing with grammar and composition.

The Writing Clinic will operate as a non-fee, non-graded, and non-credit service.

(continued page eight)

Dr. William J. David, assistant dean for undergraduate programs and academic affairs in the College of Engineering at Wayne State University, has been named director of the Hazleton Campus.

University trustees approved the appointment of Dr. David to succeed Frank C. Kostos, who retired in July.

The new director assumed his post in mid-summer. In the interim, Paul Cerula, campus business manager, was in charge.

Dr. David was nominated for the position by a search committee comprised of faculty members and University administrators.

In recommending the appointment to the board, Dr. John W. Oswald, University president, said, "We are especially pleased to have a man with the experience and high professional qualification of Dr. David to fill this important position.

A native of Lansford, Dr. David received a bachelor of science and a master of automotive engineering degree from Chrysler Institute of Engineering, both of Detroit, Mich.

He received his doctor

Dr. William David

of philosophy degree in higher education from the University of Michigan. His dissertation was entitled "The Impact of Junior Colleges on Engineering Education in the United States."

Dr. David taught at Wayne State and Chrysler Institute. He was assistant director of the Chrysler Institute Graduate School from 1953 to 1957 when he became dean of the Graduate School. (continued page eight)

PROFESSORS PROMOTED

Four Highacres professors were promoted during the summer term.

Ernest Haeussler has been promoted to assistant professor of mathematics. Mr. Haeussler, who joined the faculty in 1967, received his B.S. from Franklin and Marshall College and his M.S. from the University of Delaware. He was awarded a fellowship from University Park to continue mathematical studies. Professor Haeussler is co-author of "Introductory Mathematical Analysis: For Students of Business and Economics." He is also co-creator of WVIA-TV "Science Countdown," and a member of the Society of Sigma Xi, Pi Mu Epsilon, and the Mathematical Association of America. A native of Reading he now resides in Hazleton.

Dr. Eugene Miller has been promoted to assistant professor of history. Dr. Miller who joined the faculty in 1969, conducts classes in European History and International Understanding. He received his B.A. from Thiel College, his M.A. from the University of (continued page seven)

inside the collegian

editorials.....page two edna.....page two entertainment...page three features.....page three sound.....page four sports.....page nine