

UNICEF DRIVE

Theta Sigma Pi, a service sorority, decided to sponsor a trick or treat for UNICEF drive, so the pledges, girls who wished to join the sorority but were not yet full-fledged members, were assigned to collect money for this project. They besieged everyone in sight and attacked this first project with much enthusiasm. A total of $81.16 was collected.

A very tiny portion of that sum was collected the night before when a few courageous souls braved The Church Hill Mall in their Halloween Costumes. This caused great excitement among the children in the mall at the time. ("Look mom, Halloweeners!") The most part of the money, however, was obtained through the co-operation of students and professors on campus.

UNICEF, the United Nation's Children's Fund, helps protect children against hunger, disease, and want. It exists because of the nearly one billion children who inhabit the world's underdeveloped countries.

HYPNOTISM

On Thursday, October 25, over 200 people crammed into the dorm lobby to see Dr. Dormin and to hear his speech on hypnotism. Dr. Dormin told the audience that to be hypnotized the person must consent, must lack fear of being hypnotized, and must be able to communicate with people. He also said that the power of suggestion plays a deep part in hypnotism, and that the person, while hypnotized, is more aware of his surroundings and knows what he is saying.

Dr. Dormin then proceeded to hypnotize some of the audience. Those hypnotized were Fred Kolet, Amy Velenchik, Nick Aloj, Mark Butler, Darlene Bubeck, and Professor Leonard Shaevel, physics professor here at Highacres.

ECOLOGY CLUB NEWS

Well, things are really looking lively in the Hazleton Campus Ecology Club. Many projects are already under way under the direction of Dr. Michael A. Santulli and the newly-elected officers: Jerry Roslevich, President; Ed Van Blargan, Vice-President; Wendy Zierdt, Secretary; and Sueann Schell, Treasurer.

The main goal of the club is to work on the streams, because they feel without clean waters no life can survive. Achieving this goal will hopefully be accomplished through quality water projects, improvement devices, and trash barrels provided for stream areas.

The club also hopes it will be possible to work with Trout Unlimited. Litter bags were donated by Trout Unlimited ed to aid in the club's clean-up of what they consider the dirtiest word in the language of "the living"--trash!

Fish-for-fun projects will be organized for anyone who enjoys fishing or for those among us who would like to attempt it. The club will also present a film series on stream improvement and trout fishing. Watch the bulletin board for dates and places.

A demonstration of fly-casting will be given and a fly-tying demonstration is also to be presented by Barry Beck of Berwick, Pa. An exhibit of flies will be displayed in the library.

Not only will the club be busy with the streams, but it will also continue recycling projects in West Hazleton.
