

edna: the poor students' philosopher

I have spent two terms as a high school adjunct and six terms as a paying student at this campus. I have become a maladjusted professional college student, majoring in extra-curricular activities. My fond memories include:

Misspelling Luther as LUTHUR consistently through a history paper (an oversight over which Dr. Miller is still chuckling).

Terrorizing the South Building by tacking notes on doors and searching wildly for various profs. (Thank you, English Department, for all your help.)

Accidentally sending the entire Parnassus Society to our advisor's office on a day that he was not on campus.

Giving a solo "committee" lecture while sitting on the front desk in a short skirt. (I got a 90% for GUTS!)

Folding one hundred COLLEGIANS inside out.

Adding to my collection of friends: an almost reverend, a descendent of Attila the Hun (who was also Tamaqua's Yo-Yo champion), a basic Italian, a hungry Hungarian who won't stop smiling, Groucho Marx, and a budding poet whose first poem sold for 24¢.

Having Berger blamed for this column.

Telling Dr. David that college is great except that classes keep interrupting my free time.

And now to U-Park! Before I depart, I must thank my sources of inspiration. Thank you Hal Boyle, Edna St. Vincent Millay and Linda Gallagher for at least two of you have made money in this business. FAREWELL!

FAREWELL

Dear Highacres,

This was a very special year for the Highacres COLLEGIAN. We began to utilize our new office and established a new system of printing. We many not look like The New York Times, but the kind of paper and our method of layout is cheaper, faster, and less aggravating than an IBM system.

There are several people who have contributed to and encouraged the campus newspaper. A grateful thank you to:

-The Staff: Donna Baver, Deborah Berger, Mary Angie DeLazio, Carol Kokinda, Janilou Maderick, Nancy Meiser, Bill Michael, Jim Mullen, Alan Prichard, Jerry Roselevich, Tony Seo, Carole Shenosky, Donald Serfass, and Jack Yatsko.

-The organizations that contributed articles: Alpha Phi Omega, Belles-Lettres, Business and Economics, Chorus, History Club, Literary Magazine, Parnassus, SUB, SGA, and Theta Sigma Pi.

-The Faculty, especially Dr. Aurand, Mr. Biacchi, Mr. Biggers, Mrs. Bodenstein, Mr. Breckenridge, Mr. Concannon, Mrs. Jago, Mr. Jumpeter, Mr. Kafka, Dr. Lerch, Mr. Price, Dr. Santulli, Mr. Shaevel, and Dr. Win, for submitting articles and/or granting interviews with our reporters.

-The Administration, especially Dr. David, Dean McCallus, and Mr. Binns for encouraging us and assisting free press.

-Our friends Barb Mace, Mike Petresky, Debbie Snyder, Joe Caputo, Mark Denke, Mary Nester, and Tom Shea for dropping by and saying Hello.

-We wish the best of luck to Bill Michael, Donna Baver, Don Serfass, and Jerry Roselevich as next year's Board of Directors.

-Special thanks to Mrs. Walck for her delicious lunches, Ziggy for his excellent dusting, and Joyce Grego for continued page ten

OPEN LETTER

Dear Student Body,

As most of you know by now, the Student Union Board obtained new game machines for both the Student Union Building and Residence Hall. These games include two air hockey machines, two electronic tennis games, and one pinball machine. Within the past two weeks, extensive damage has been done to a number of the machines. If any further vandalism occurs in the future the company will be forced to remove the machines. This would mean that we would not be able to have any type of amusement machines in the future. I am asking the student body to help stop this destruction.

Sincerely,
Everitt F. Binns
Asst. to the Dean of Student Affairs
