

DAVID TAKES ACTION ON S.G.A. REQUESTS

By Elliot Grossman

Dr. William David, Director of the Highacres Campus, took action on January 4 to have windows installed in the double doors in the Highacres Commons. The doors are located in the eastern portion of the upper floor of the Commons.

David took action as a result of the Highacres Student Government Association and Mr. Everitt Binns, Assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs, requesting that windows be installed in the doors, according to Ron Drum, President of the S.G.A. The S.G.A. made this request as a result of a student, James Roslevich having two teeth knocked out. The teeth were knocked out as a result of a lack of visibility by a person standing on the opposite side of the doors, swinging the doors open into Roslevich's face.

The windows were installed on January 18.

The S.G.A. also asked David to take action on another long standing safety hazard on campus. The metal stairs located between the upper sophomore parking lot and the faculty parking lot have been proven to be very dangerous, especially during the winter with accumulations of snow and ice.

Paul Cerula, Business Manager, had told the COLLEGIAN on March 17, 1976 that bids were being taken to rebuild the stairs using concrete to make the salting easier during the winter months. However, the stairs were never rebuilt.

Also, according to Drum, this was not the first time that the S.G.A. had brought the issue to the administration. He said that in past years the S.G.A. had requested that safer stairs be installed.

David promised the S.G.A. that "as soon as the weather breaks" the stairs will be rebuilt.

continued on page 10

Have A Heart

continued from page 2
service to lower costs to the customer.

Unfortunately, and I myself have witnessed this, people, both faculty and students alike would buy coffee, doughnuts, etc. and then buy a second cup of coffee, and then leave. Behind these people were left tables with cups, paper plates, crumbs, and "what not!" And as more people used the tables, the piles grew higher, cups were used as ashtrays, and finally the cups started to fall and break. Not only did cups break, but some were actually stolen!

So Mr. Krone and the ladies worked twice as hard to clean the tables, cups, and floors and still get the financial and bookkeeping work done in time before the Union said, "quitting time!" It got to the point that

Mr. Krone had to hire an extra person to help clean-up the Commons. He had to replace broken and stolen cups. A heavy work load, and costs rising over the Commons ceiling put an end to trying to keep the

Mr. Krone decided to make a plea to the customers. Signs went up asking the customers to return the cups and to clear off the tables, but no one listened. Finally, as a last resort, before closing up the snack bar completely, Mr. Krone bought styrofoam cups and up went the price of coffee.

Up also went the cries of "robbery" and "ridiculous, having to use styrofoam cups."

Funny, how people can be so stupid as to think they can be sloppy and not have to pay for it. Can people be so inconsiderate to each other as not to clean up after themselves so the next person will not have to before he or she can eat? Are the students not embarrassed when visitors enter the Commons Lounge and discover the place looks like a pigsty?

Everyone, hang your heads in shame and have a heart. Clean up your tables so maybe we can get back to drinking coffee out of a porcelain cup and not a styrofoam cup.

VOTING?

continued from page 1
three of the four candidates were residence hall students the responses have been categorized into two areas: the responses from town students and the responses from resident students.

When town students were asked if they knew the person that they had voted for as anything more than a name several of the ten students interviewed responded like Mike Toth, who said, "I didn't know any of them."

Dave Uhle did not know who he voted for and said, "...for that matter I don't even remember the name."

Continued on page 6

WHERE?

...CAN YOU FIND

taylor caldwell
saul bellow
fyodor dostoevsky
j.r.r. tolkien
arthur rimbaud
rosemary rogers
frank herbert
nikos kazantzakis
hermann hesse
agatha christie
friedrich nietzsche
joseph wambaugh
kurt vonnegut
lawrence ferlinghetti
victoria holt
jean-paul sartre
jack kerouac
sigmund freud
henry miller
ernest hemingway
pablo picasso
kathleen woodiwigs
dylan thomas
gore vidal
charles baudelaire
jerzy kosinski
harold robbins
virginia woolf
arthur miller
dr. seuss
ram dass

The ALL NEW

City Book Store

31 N. LAUREL ST.