

RHC EVENTS

By Ilsa Loetzbeier-R.H.C. Vice-President and Liz Kovacs-R.H.C. Assistant Vice-President

The Residence Hall Council has launched an all-out attempt to involve students in activities on campus. The goal is to provide an event for the interests of all students. Activities range from pure fun to academic subjects.

With the elections of new members, R.H.C. has more people who wish to constructively develop the potential of the organization. The new members are: Greg James-Social committee, Sadie Ritchie-Public Relations, Dick Wetzels-Food and Housing, Cindy Layton and John Sengle-Recreation.

Two major events held in the Residence Hall were Women's and Men's Week. They were sponsored by the Office of Residential Life and the Student Affairs Cultural Series. Both were a series of lectures, discussions, and films dealing with different areas of concern for men and women. Some of the topics were rape, abortion, non-parenthood as a lifestyle and men's liberation. The students actively participated and the programs were successful.

On January 26, a forum with the Students Standards Board was held in the Residence Hall Lobby. They Board answered questions directed to them about problems students have with classes, University charges, and other areas of concern. As a result of this Forum, students have become more aware of dealing with their problems. The Student Standards Board has also gained more insight into their responsibility.

Other Forums included speakers such as George Bobby and Bruce Young of the Athletic Department, Jim White and James Staudemeir spoke on class problems and counseling, and Dean McCallus spoke on Student Affairs.

A Valentines Dance was held in the Dining Hall on February 10. It began at 9 P.M. Everyone was welcome and encouraged to come. Many types of music were played. Refreshments were served and all the participants enjoyed themselves. Other Dances are planned throughout the Spring term.

The R.H.C. hopes that through more information of upcoming events, students will participate more in the activities planned for them.

campus was to take place in Texas. "Morning Song" is well-established, having already cut two albums. However, the Union Board does concede that the Eagles are undoubtedly better known.

The Sub has considered the success of the Mark Lane Lecture and recognizes the monetary support given to the Student Affairs Cultural Series by various clubs as a great asset to the achievement. However the SUB still feels that a money barrier exists for bringing "well-established" groups to Highacres. For instance, "Morning Song" our "local band", ranges in cost from $2800-$3000 per show. If "well-established" refers to the "Eagles", the cost would be roughly three times as much as "Morning Song." We do not believe, at this time, that all the clubs on campus could come close to raising the money needed to bring in this type of well-established group.

The SUB is utilizing money and ideas to the best of its ability. We are always willing to receive suggestions at our meetings on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 P.M. in the Commons, and are also willing to receive any constructive criticism of our performance.

Respectfully,
The members of The Student Union Board

KENNEDY ASSASSINATION

INVESTIGATION REVIVED

Washington-

The United States House of Representatives, over strong opposition, voted on February 3 to reactivate until at least March 31 its investigation of the John Kennedy and Martin Luther King, Jr. assassinations.

The vote, following a long day of deliberation, was 237 to 164 in favor of a resolution reviving the House Select Committee on Assassinations, which formed last autum but dissolved automatically at the end of the 94th Congress.

The twelve-member assassination panel is expected to use the roughly two-month period to get itself organized, establish rules and investigate methods and work out a budget. When the limited mandate expires at the end of March, the House will consider whether to extend it through the rest of the legislative year.

One reason the committee ran into trouble was that many members considered extravagant its spending proposal-$13 million over two years.
