

Dr. Anthony Galanti
(Photo by David Kohuth.)

Galanti Receives Teaching Award

University Park, Pa.

Dr. Anthony V. Galanti, associate professor of engineering at Highacres, is one of three faculty members in Penn State's College of Engineering to receive Excellence in Teaching Awards.

Galanti, honored as a faculty member who has taught primarily in the associate degree program or in the first two years of the baccalaureate program, received a certificate and $500 from the Penn State Engineering Society, the alumni group of the College of Engineering. The award winners were selected by a committee appointed by Dr. Nunzio J. Palladino, dean of the College.

Dr. Galanti, who was chosen from among eight top candidates, has averaged 4.75 out of a possible 5.00 in four Effective Teaching surveys.

A graduate of Penn State with a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering, he is a cum laude graduate of Newark College of Engineering with a master of science degree in chemical engineering and received his doctor of philosophy degree, also in chemical engineering from Lehigh University.

Prior to joining the engineering faculty at the Hazleton Campus as an instructor in 1965, he was a project engineer in research and development at Warner Lambert Corp., Morris Plains, N.J. He is a registered professional engineer in Pennsylvania.

GIVE TO THE

American Cancer Society

APRIL F.O.O.L.S. DAY

COLLECTION POINTS ON CAMPUS

Sponsored by the
Fraternal Order Of Lunatics

This space donated as a public service by The
HIGHACRES COLLEGIAN

Library Losses

Continued from page 7

sent time the library is understaffed. There are not enough work-study students to cover all the library hours. Currently there are students paid $2.30 per hour to check all outgoing patrons, which is money that Ferry feels could be better spent toward the purchase of the Checkpoint System. "If students could be working at the circulation desk," said Ferry, "librarians could truly be working with the students."

"With the stealing and its costs, it is impossible to stay up with the current books and periodicals." According to Ferry, "students stealing books are only hurting themselves."

"I am hoping someone will have pangs of conscience."

ON APRIL 1st, DON'T BE FOOLED
VOTE FOR EXPERIENCE!
VOTE FOR

Nancy Jim
KLOTSKO and FERRY!