SECURITY DEPARTMENT RELOCATED

New criteria set by the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry caused the closing of the second floor of the Memorial Building.

The second floor portion of the building was officially closed and sealed-off on February 28, according to Paul Cerula, Business Manager at Highacres. "At one time it was safe, but the Department of Labor and Industry updated their standards and we were ordered to vacate the second floor," said Cerula, speaking about the Memorial Building.

Because a portion of the Memorial Building was closed three faculty members have had to be temporarily housed in office space in the Main Building. Dr. Dill, Mr. Breckenridge, and Mrs. Moyer, members of the English staff, have temporary offices in room nine in the basement of the Main Building. The writing clinic, which was formerly housed on the second floor of the Memorial Building is also lacking a permanent location. "Hopefully, we will find a more permanent location in the near future," said Cerula, speaking about the faculty offices and the writing clinic.

Another relocation on campus occurred when the Department of Safety was moved from the South Building to the building formerly occupied by the Department of General Services. The move was made to expand the quarters assigned to the Safety Department, according to Cerula, the entire Security Department, the Maintenance Staff, and the Technical Service Staff will be housed in this building in the future.

sightings come from the northern and especially Canada. A majority of the witnesses tell of "a strong musky odor" accompanying the creature.

All of the witnesses have asked to remain anonymous "to avoid publicity and and slander." For all, "it was certainly a night to remember. First the keg party on the fireline and then bigfoot."

The Parnassus Chapter of the Keystone Honor Society inducted nine new members into it's ranks on April 21. The inductees are: Lisa Angst, Annette Bowski, Mark Gerhard, Elizabeth Gorski, Annette Gustosky, Robert Hahn, Brian Horwith, Raymond Kissner, and Frank Zwetolitz.

ested in their purpose, is the person "power-hungry", does the person give "right" or "pat" answers, do they "stand on their own two feet", do they indicate an ability to communicate their ideas and thoughts to others, do they reach for questions, are they confident, are they aware fo the situation at hand, what are their social awarenesses or prejudices, are they willing to accept responsibilities, is the candidate honest about their motivation for the job? Each applicant is evaluated individually on these and other areas and are then rated in a scale of one to five in each area. Each applicant is then given a final overall rating on their performance. The individuals with the top nine scores (seven board members and two alternates) are then elected as candidates for the Hazleton Campus Student Standards Board.

However, the election process is not yet over. These candidates are then given booklets containing all University disciplinary procedures and policies. They must read and understand these books entirely. The candidates are then given a written test that deals with the entire scope of University disciplinary procedures. To sit on the Student Standards Board the candidates must earn a score of at least 85%. The chairman of the Board must score at least 90%.

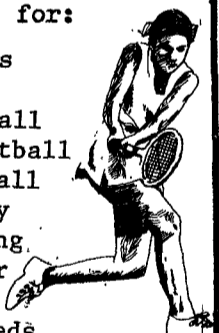

Once a candidate passes this test with the necessary score he is required to attend a number of formal training sessions. In these sessions he learns about his duties, responsibilities, and role as a member of the Hazleton Campus Student Standards Board.
