Trick or treating was also held on the 30th in the Residence Hall from 7 to 8 p.m. The girls went trick or treating from 7 to 7:30 and the guys from 7:30 to 8. very interested in what was being taught while he and Dr. Santulli were very involved in teaching them. It seems the students weren't the only ones who learned from this experience.

Each "College for Kids" group contains about twenty young people who pay $15 per session for the privilege of participating in such a worthwhile program. However, thanks to a grant provided by the Pennsylvania Committee for the Advancement of Humanities, "Physics and Philosophy" was run at no cost to those who were involved.

Intramural Sports Board

By BUD SWENSON

With the fall term coming to a close, the Intramural Sports Board has focused its attentions on next terms activities. Realizing that winter weather hinders many extra curricular activities that may occupy your time now, we have spent a great deal of time looking into new intramural sports for an assortment that would suit everyone. Along with the normally scheduled sports such as bowling, basketball, volleyball, water basketball, and foul shooting, we have proposed three more; racquetball, wrestling, and winter olympics.

Winter olympics can best be described as being just a good, crazy time. Although nothing has been officialized, there will

CHEERLEADING

By ROBYN KUCHERA

Our first home basketball game will be played on Wednesday, December 6th at 8 p.m. against Keystone Junior College. This will also be the 1st appearance of our newly chosen 1978-1979 cheerleading squad members. Tryouts were held October 11th at 6 p.m., with the following girls being selected:

Lynn Trefsgar, Dianne Sipple, Bernie Hodrick, Chrissy Bagalonis, Chrissy Photis, Marilyn Talarovich, Judy Scalzo, and Diane Rood.

The girls are also planning a number of various fund raisers to help pay for their expenses. We sincerely hope everyone will support them on these endeavors. We're also proud to announce this year's mascots Barry Jais, Keller Taylor and Tom Reed.

Mr. Shaevel, when asked if he felt the program was worth the effort, replied that not only was it worthwhile, it was a great chance to experience some feedback. It seems a good (or perhaps a not so good) percentage of Mr. Shaevel's college classes don't want to become involved in discussion and when they do they're answers aren't as complete and thought out as the responses these younger college students give.

Hopefully, Dr. Santulli and Mr. Shaevel will be able to conduct another "College for Kids" workshop real soon.

be team competition in a host of activities and a lot of crazyness in between. Some possibilities could be volleyball, swimming relays, three legged races, bowling, and tug-of-war, just to mention a few.

Another new idea this year was the purchase of T-shirts instead of trophies for the winning IM teams. That idea will turn into a reality for the fall term intramural champs. If it goes over well this term, then we plan to use T-shirts all year. Look for these shirts and tell us what you think.

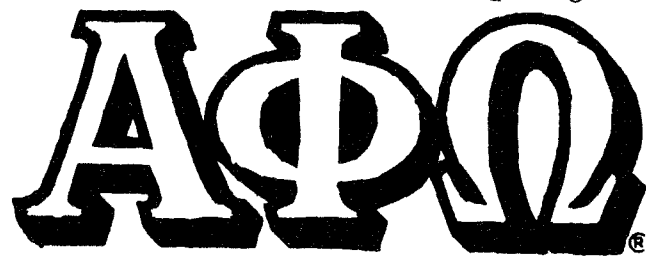

More than that, get out and have some fun next term. Do something you enjoy or something you always wanted to try. You don't have to be an athlete to have a good time.

Parnassus

By KELLER TAYLOR

The Parnassus Chapter of the Keystone Society is a group of students combined to uphold academic endeavor, benevolence, honor, integrity, and service at the Hazleton Campus of Penn State. Membership will be opened later in the year to those who wish to be considered.

At the present, plans are being prepared for a book sale to take place in the Commons on November 1 and 2. The books will be from the faculty and library and will be sold at a very low price. This is the chance to pick up reference books and spend only cents. We hope that everyone will take advantage of this activity.

The fraternity is going stronger than ever and the activities so far have been most successful. Our trip to the Bloomsburg State Fair took place on one of the nicest Thursdays we could have asked for and all forty-one seats were filled. Everyone who attended had a good time, and with this kind of backing we hope to be able to offer more events along these lines as the year progresses.

Many activity ideas were

By CHERI KACK & SUE NOVAK

Do youse want to try your luck in Las Vegas? Well, come to the closest thing to it, the SUB's sponsored version of "Las Vegas Night."

Beginning at 8:00 p.m. November 3 in the Commons, there will be the gambler's dream come true. The activities will include the crap tables, blackjack, two wheels of fortune, backgammon, and for the main event there will be the door prize. For the music fans there will be a special guest star which will not be announced at this time. For the habitual drinkers there will be an old-fashioned bar with beer like you've never had before. The final event will be the cowgirl races. During the course of the evening these girls will be at your service, ready to wait on you. They also will be requesting bets from the customers in order to establish odds on them for the cowgirl race at the end of the evening. So remember to bet on your favorite gal or gals.

brought up for consideration at our last meeting. Among these were a hay ride, a trip to a winery, and a door to door collection for UNICEF.

The fraternity holds meetings every two weeks on Tuesday evenings and the dates are posted well in advance. Membership is open to all, male and female. If you enjoy activity in a social atmosphere stop by the next meeting and find out what it's all about.

Special thanks to Judy Newton and Tom Shea for their help in our activities.
