

Inside

Dissecting the Biology Department

• Dr. Orbin

• Dr. Covert

• Dr. Frankel

Page 2

The Highacres Collegian

April 30, 1982

Vol. 17, No. 4

Published by the students of Hazleton Campus, Penn State University

By Jerry Trently

About 120 persons attended a rededication ceremony in the Highacres Commons. The March 31 ceremony was held in recognition of improvements made to the building last year.

In conjunction with the ceremony, the Hazleton Campus Video Club provided a spaghetti dinner with members of the club serving as waiters and waitresses.

Dr. William David, Director of the Hazleton Campus, was master of ceremonies. "We're proud of the progress we've made here at the Hazleton Campus," said

Please see
"COMMONS" pg. 5

Commons re-dedicated in ribbon-cutting ceremony by (l to r) Alita Rovito, William McKinnon, Karl Krone, Dr. William David, and James McBrearty.

Photo by Tony Leshinski

Commons rededicated with French flavor

P.M. program thriving

For the past school year Highacres has been the subject of a noble experiment in secondary education. The P.M. program here at Highacres makes our campus unique.

"Why Hazleton?" you ask. It all started at an informal gathering of several members of the Director's Advisory Board including Dr. David and Dr. Staudenmeir. The meeting included a discussion on how to meet the expected "enrollment crush" in the fall and finished with a proposal of a new program to meet student and University needs, the P.M. program.

Continuing Education (C.E.) appeared to be a part of the solution. The P.M. program is essentially an outgrowth of C.E. with its own set of guidelines. The program offers a core of courses suitable for any major, whereas C.E. offers courses catered to individual needs. Also, the P.M. program requires that a student carry a minimum of nine credits, unlike C.E.

Please see
"PM PROGRAM" pg. 5

CONTINUING EDUCATION