

RESPECT

Students Vs. Faculty
(Raelly)

Everyday you hear studetents complaining about faculty, and if you listen, you can also hear faculty complaining about students. Well, that situation can be resolved. If we, as a student body make up our minds to pursue better relations with the faculty, the complaints would decrease dramatically. The same goes for the faculty. It is my belief that this will come about only by the sincere efforts of everyone. The efforts should be directed towards communication. Sure, sure we've all heard this before but how many of us can honestly say we've hone it? Not just once or twice, but every time? Approach the faculty member with quiet words of curiosity, or approach the student with quiet words of concern. Be sincere not "wise". Be polite and show the respect the other person deserves. Each of us is a human being, and it is because of this that we've earned respect. We students have plodded through primary and secondary school. Some of us have even gone a little farther. Now we're in college with the desire to learn more. (If not you shouldn't be here wasting time, money, and space.)

Faculty have earned our respect by going the same route we have, and have become Doctor's or Masters of their profession. It may seem tired, but respect carries alot of weight with people. It is in respect that students can meet with faculty. It is in respect that we can overcome our problems, together. It is in respect that we can learn from one another. We can all spell relief R E S P E C T

Paul Perz: Wake me when it's over!

Ferry con't

"This was the straw that broke the camels back" Ferry said. Ferry then issued a 5-page statement on why he was resigning, and resigned.

The Administration, according to Ferry, has treated these two incidents as minor events. "The Administration graciously didn't present the information properly, as to why I resigned" said Ferru/

He hopes to raise faculty, staff, and students conciousness to the "violations of his professionalism as a librarian" by protesting.

Love life con't have "lived" more. I suppose all of us have to learn things on our own, and experience difficulties to appreciate the good things in our lives. Everyone is given one life. How do you intend to live yours?

"Life is not reducible to equations, probability ratios and numbers.

"Life is not valued as important because it can be productive or profitable or efficient.

"It is valuable in and of itself.

"Life is not a means to advance some distant utilitarian end, it is an

Editor - in - Chief
Robert Hagenbuch
"Bushman"

Assistant Editors
Gina Donofrio
Andrea Salerno

Photography
Mark Dickey

Artist
Mark Sabia

Staff
Candace Canady
Stuart Erwin
Daniel Frey
Jeff Hall
Bethann Longenecker
Jonathon Mensch
Amy Muschek
Pat Kelly
Dan Vanderheiden
Todd Souders
Mark Dickey

Layout
Gina Donofrio
Jeff Hall
Paul Perz
Andrea Salerno
Mark Dickey

end. It is not an instrument, it is a gift.

"Life is not to be judged by what it can do, or accomplished, or how it can be exploited. Instead, all the things we do are to be judged by how well we honor the idea of the sacredness of life."

-Declaration of a Heretic

Mike Engleman: Typical Freshman victim.

Dear Paul,
Do you love me enough to use a condom?

Love, Patty
PLANNED PARENTHOOD 454-0876