Game Huddle: Pay attention Brian.

SKI CLUB

With fearless leadership thanks to Jon and Mario's from all officers and the support of members and faculty, Ski Club has become an active club on campus. The club has shown hot ski movies, co-sponsored dances and yes, even skied. Trips were taken to Mount St. Anne, Quebec and Elk Mountain. Attendance at recent meetings has sagged, but there is always plenty of pizza and stromboli

It was a great first year for the ski team which participated in five Dodge Cup Races at Little Gap, Shawnee, and Montage. Members included Jack, Sean, Eric, Mark, Pete, Steve, Natalie, Mary Jo, and Kelly. Hopefully next year will be even better due to our new officers Matty and Kimber. "til then, think SNOW!

BASEBALL

Yes, for our first baseball team ever here at Penn State Hazelton the team is shaping up well. Cy Falatko the team's coach says, "We have a bunch of enthusiastic, guys devoted and willing to play ball." Fifty-five guys signed up originally but only forty-six showed up for practice. After a week of practice Cy had to cut the team over fifty percent to twenty players for the squad.

The guys have only two games scheduled, at Scranton March 22, and at Luzerne Community college April 27. Cy blames their late practicing date on the count of no games though more games are expected to be scheduled.

George Lizalda, a sophomore player says "there is a lot of potential talent but it's just not put together yet." George too feels that more games will needed to be scheduled as with most members of the team.

A VIEW OF THE WINTER OLYMPICS

ABC's coverage of the Winter Olympics
by Todd Souders

While many of us were sitting through class learning equations, formulas, and Mr. Biacchi's Gross National Product, the World's greatest athletes were gathering together in Calgary, Alberta Canada. Many years of hard work were going to pass in a week. The athletes were not the only ones who worked hard before the Olympics. The National network, ABC, also worked hard to bring us the Olympics. ABC and its crew were in Calgary months before the Olympics. They built towers, organized the best camera views and prepared notes to tell the large viewing audience.

ABC has always been known as the best channel for bringing us sports. This is why ABC was under a lot of pressure to bring us a great broadcast. They had their best sports broadcasters ready to bring us live action. Jim McKay, as usual, was host of the two week extravaganza. He has been host to previous Olympics as well. ABC started off the Olympics with the opening ceremonies. They did a very respectable job in covering it. Peter Jennings from ABC's World News Tonight came on with Jim McKay to give his insights on the opening ceremonies. ABC had great camera views and even better ceremony, which made the opening ceremonies even that much better.

The coverage of all the events was respectable. The coverage of figure skating might have been the best. The much publicized "battle of the Brian's" and Katarina Witt against Debbi Thomas may have been the reason. ABC really built up the rivalries by having interviews with all of the favorites and breaking down every move the competitors made. The last night of the ladies event was the most watched event during the Olympics. ABC did not disappoint us with their coverage. The hockey coverage was not up to par this year. This is due to the poor
