Val,
I'd like to dedicate this poem by Donald Lev to you and your brother: He was a young God dying in a Rosy vision

He was the God of chance, and Under all his innocence Was a ghastly schemer Water nymphs combed him Out of their sea green hair The king of the deep cleansed him From his yellow stare The whole earth groaned Under his shortness of years I knew him briefly, He Seemed a nice, gentle Young man.

Your Friend,
