

Improvement Club Formed And Officers Elected

As a result of several projects worked in the Engl. Comp. 4 class last semester, a Center Improvement Club was formed. Miss Dorothy Muck, and Miss Edna Saby, were elected as advisers. The purpose of this club is to beautify the campus.

The officers of this club are: president, Chris Skoff; vice-president, Thomas Bolton; secretary-treasurer, George Kline.

Fourteen sophomores signified their attention of becoming charter members. The freshmen are heartily urged to join this club because it is through them, ultimately, that the plans of the club can be realized.

Classes Elect Officers To Replace Old Ones

Elections were held last week to fill the vacancy in the Student Council created by David Yeakel and Anthony Persico, who are not enrolled for the second semester.

Angelo Lucadamo was elected president of Sophomore class and automatically became the president of the Student Council.

Frank Veneroso was elected president of the Freshman class. This also makes him a member of the Student Council.

Class Does Research Work

The students of the Sociology class of the Penn State Center are doing research work on economic and social conditions of Hazleton. They are gathering statistics about the number of church members of the community and the financial conditions of the various churches, schools, and newspapers.

Reading Trip Was Success

In the afternoon the co-eds visited the Narrow Fabric Company and saw how rick rack, shoe laces, and tape are made. Each one was given a sample of regular sized cord rick rack. Meanwhile the men toured the Textile Machine Works.

The girls then returned to the Polytechnic Institute, where they received autographs and the names and addresses of the W. P. I. students.

At 3:00 p. m. the students and faculty went to the Reading Museum and Art Gallery where they were given a talk by Dr. Earl E. Poole.

For dinner in the evening, they went to the cafeteria of the Reading Y. M. C. A., and at 8:00 p. m. attended a basketball game between H.U.C. and W.P.I.

As soon as the game ended, the group returned home. They arrived in Hazleton at midnight.

Debaters Represented

The students from the Center who attended the Convention were: Bernadette Kohler, Michael Kulick, William Butler, and Walter Rosenblatt. Mr. Hans Janssen is the adviser.

Joins Junior College Group

The Hazleton Undergraduate Center is now a full-fledged member of the Association of Junior Colleges.

Three articles about this Center are found in the February and March issues of the Junior College Journal. In February issue one article concerns the Center's glass exhibit and the other, the Centers as a whole. In the March issue an article discussed the guidance program at the Hazleton Undergraduate Center.

Gives Talk on Newspapers

Mr. Roy E. Morgan, assistant Administrative Head of the Hazleton Undergraduate Center, recently addressed the Hazleton Chapter of the American Institute of Banking at a dinner meeting and forum held at the Altamont Hotel. Mr. Morgan chose as his topic "Behind the Smokescreen of the News."

Mr. Herpel Speaks on Radio

Mr. Coleman Herpel, Administrative Head of Hazleton Undergraduate Center, recently addressed the Hazleton Chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart at their fifth annual banquet, which was held at the Altamont Hotel. His speech was broadcast over the local station, WAZL.

NYA List Increased

The National Youth Administration of the Hazleton Undergraduate Center has added three more members to its growing list now totaling fifteen.

At the end of the semester five joined and two left the NYA.
