

COMMUNICATED
NEWS DIRECT FROM PENN STATE CAMPUS

Dan Wargo, Hazleton Center student last year and member of the Hazleton Little Theater group, has been cast in the part of a southern preacher in "Down of the Moon," to be presented at State College soon.

Dan had a leading role in "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" which played fifteen nights in Schwab hall. This was a record run for college talent plays at the campus.

Hazleton Centerites who went to the campus this February have wasted no time in getting into activities. Jay Meikrantz is a member of Penn State's symphony orchestra and Sammy Hall has been accepted in the Chapel Choir.

It didn't take Maurice Romanelli and Leo Ravina long to organize a Fingers competition in the true tradition of Tresckow. The boys from this area drummed up the project and more of Penn State's students—reported this session at over 9,500—are beginning to learn a new game.

Girls planning to advance to the main campus will be outfitted royally next year in McElwain hall, now under construction. The building is about a five minutes slow walk to Old Main and is rumored to have telephones in each room.

Many of the boys wishing to bolster their finances have taken jobs of various kinds in the fraternity houses in State College. Bernie Yurick, pre-med student, didn't waste too much time to do this when making the rounds of the houses during the between-semesters-vacation.

And for the rest of the students, they are showing the bones their fingers are worked down to... with studies.

The Weaker Sex

According to a report Miss Ruth Stinemeyer read, the men are the weaker sex. This could be serious. If enough men find this out, soon the woman will have to help them with their overcoats and open car doors for them. Wouldn't it be pretty silly to see the new bride carry the groom across the threshold? Or see a woman pull out a chair for her boy friend before he sits down? However, a remark from Squirrelly Nowak gives up hope that this will ever happen. He inquired: "Wanna wrestle?"

PLEASE—DO NOT SMOKE

Faculty Members and Administration Heads ask that students refrain from smoking in the classrooms and first floor hall.

Smoking is permitted in the basement.

LOCAL ANNOUNCER DON MURRAY INFORMS CENTER ABOUT WAZL

It's quite unique after laying out for several months to be again back of the typewriter with a Fourteen Ninety column... But then Penn State has been very kind in permitting us to "blow our own horn" in the paper and so we've taken advantage of the offer to tell you a few things about WAZL that you undoubtedly already know... "The region's key to NBC"... "The voice of Pennsylvania's highest city" are two of the household expressions familiar to everyone in the region.

In spite of Jack Benny's moving to another network, WAZL has replaced Benny's slot with the Horace Heidt show... If you listen to Horace for Phillip Morris then you know that the replacement is worthwhile... America was built on its faith in its youth, and Horace is just carrying on the true American tradition by aiding the youth to get a chance on a coast to coast hookup of America's number one network...

At the studios of WAZL we have other excellent programs for your listening pleasure... Bob "Penn State" Sacco conducts his Polka Time show nightly Monday through Friday at 6:15 and by the way the mail comes in we think 6:15 is the top spot... Then the Penn State programs on the air (much too infrequent) have excellent production, fine work, and a top hooper.

Several new shows include the forum, "The Way It Looks to Me," which features a discussion by leading citizens of the problems confronting the Greater Hazleton region... Saturday Jamboree (2 p.m.) with a swing session and a boy and girl vocal combo, all local... The New Woman's World program featuring Frances Carter Monday through Friday (1:45) and many others are being planned for future release.

For educational purposes and entertainment as well we'd like to call Penn State's attention to "University Theatre" Sunday 2:30-3:30... "Dress Rehearsal" with the Boston Symphony Orchestra (Monday, 1 p.m.), NBC Theatre (Sunday 8:30 p.m.), Radio City Playhouse (Monday 10:30 p.m.) and of course Pearl Garbrick's program, "Serenade From the Pen of the Masters," each Wednesday at 10:30 p.m.

Hazleton High basketball makes it very difficult to catch the Penn Staters but you can rest assured we are keeping our eyes on them each week and are happy with the results. Again to all of you from all of us thanks for the opportunity of talking to you.

AROUND THE COLLEGE CIRCUIT

Boston College has taken a deeper plunge into the leveling of student financial difficulties. It has adopted what is known as the "Purchase Card System." The card may be bought for one dollar and it entitles the students to sales discounts at the co-operation Boston corporations. Some sixty colleges and universities have already experimented with the plan and at the latest report the students as well as the merchants seemed satisfied.

Wilkes College, Wilkes-Barre, has the honor of being host for the first state conference of International Relations Club to be held sometime in the spring.

Here is one for the Greek students. Miami University's Greek Symposium have begun as a movement to raise $2,000 for the erection of Socrates in granite. The plan as yet hasn't clicked as the students are protesting rather loudly.

Students of Wilkes College recently formed a caravan to Split Rock Lodge in the Poconos. The weather was ideal for the enjoyment of all winter sports which included skiing, skating, ice-boating and tobogganing.

After a tiring day the collegians welcomed refreshments and ended their sporting trip with dancing at the lodge.

In a recent copy of the Kings College "Crown," Dan Cupid made the headlines. It read, "With the warm weather in these parts Dan left the storm-stricken West to resume his spring fever fancy of love-making in our locality." Not only did he leave his arrows at Kings but signs of his work are evident at Penn Center.

HOSPITAL ADDRESS

Any student who would like to send a convalescent card to Delores Lee can send it to St. Mary's Hospital in Scranton, Pa.

NOT ANGELS, BUT ANGLES

"Cordelia was an angle,"
Wrote one who'd studied LEAR.
She must have been a fearsome sight!
Was she obtuse or was she right?
And did France think her queer?
I did not work this by square root,
But I think Cordie was a-CUTE
Angle!

POOR LITTLE GRANDMAMMA

"When six years old, my Grandma died,"
A freshman wrote today.
Do you suppose Grandma's playmates cried
when Grandma passed away?

A good thing to remember: When you point a finger at someone else, you're pointing three at yourself.

Library Corner

Few students would consider enrolling in a college which did not possess a library, yet there are many students at the Center who make very scant use of it, and some who have never been in the library at all. Apparently many of them are not aware of what the library has to offer.

Our library contains 3800 volumes and subscribes to over thirty periodicals among which are the Reader's Digest, Esquire, Time, and Life. The latest best sellers in fiction and non-fiction are available for leisure reading. Our reference section is rapidly expanding and contains many valuable reference works including the Encyclopedia Britannica (with the addition of Encyclopedia Americana expected shortly).

A BORROWED BOOK

A borrowed book is like a guest in the house; it must be treated with punctiliousness, with a certain considerate formality. You must see that it sustains no damage; it must not suffer under your roof. You cannot leave it carelessly, you cannot turn down the pages, you cannot use it familiarly. And then some day, although this is seldom done, you really ought to return it.

IN CAPSULE FORM

The Alibi...

Kate liked to sleep late. So being late was the rule rather than the exception in her case. Morning after morning she reported for classes at least five minutes after everybody else, but teacher was a kindly person and also one who liked to sleep so he hesitated to say anything to her.

Soon the other students began to complain of this so-called partiality shown to Kate, and the time had come when teacher had to speak to her of this matter.

That morning five minutes after everybody was seated, Kate arrived and teacher loudly summoned her to his office.

"Late again," he bristled, his blood pressure hitting about 300...

"Why... er... er," she stuttered, "I got a flat tire on my way to school... I'm awfully sorry, Mr. Steele..."

Teacher, being a kindly person and also one who liked to sleep, immediately accepted her excuse. He told her in his best school voice that all would be forgotten.

Kate was quite pleased with her perfect alibi. While performing her daily tasks she made a mental note to try to be on time the next morning.

The next morning found Kate up bright and early. She just couldn't be late after how nice teacher had been to her yesterday.

But on the way to school poor Kate got a flat tire...

Having arrived at class exactly a half hour late Kate reported to teacher. "Mr. Steele... I'm... er... er... late again... you see... I... er... I overslept..."

TO CONDUCT POLL

Sometime in the near future the Activities Board is going to conduct a poll of the students to determine what activities they would like to see initiated at the Center.
