

Club Doings

At the meeting of the International Relations club Mr. Eugene McBride, the club vice-president, led a discussion concerning China. He rendered a short talk on the conflict between the Nationalists and the Communists. A lively discussion took place following the address.

Announcement was received from Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre setting the date of the First Annual State Conference of International Relations Clubs, which will take place on April 22, 23 and 24 at that college. The topic of the meet will be "What can IRC clubs do to help dramatize the United Nations Education, Scientific, Cultural Organization Aims and Principles and Projects in your community?"

Take notice, club members, that the weekly meeting date of the IRC has been changed to Thursday at noon in W-17. However, the Sandwich Cinema Hour remains every other Wednesday at noon.

The first meeting of the mathematics club was held Tuesday night, March 1, at seven p.m. The following officers were elected:

President—Donald Kump.

Vice-president—Mary Louise Pollock.

Secretary-Treasurer — Fritz Podlesny.

Activities Board Representative—Anthony Dombroski.

Reporter—Dolores Kobrick.

Meetings of the club will be held every other Tuesday, and alternating with the Chemistry club. The program committee for the meeting of March 15 is: Morell Fox, Peggy Kohler and Thomas McGee. A movie on analytic geometry will be shown; refreshments will be served.

Bernard Carr, Myron Schmutzer and Charles Grebey performed a qualitative analysis at the last meeting of the Chemistry club. Refreshments, a popular feature of this club, were served. The next meeting of the club is on March 23.

Der Schnitzelbankverein held its first social meeting of the new semester at the home of the president, George Scheers, on Wednesday night, March 2. The group sang songs, popped corn and enjoyed the meeting together, after opening with the international students' fellowship ritual, the "Salamander," and the German students' "Kneipe" initiation ritual.

All Mummy club members are requested to watch the Broad Street bulletin board for future announcements.

The French club held its first meeting on Friday noon, February 25, at "Our House" restaurant. Since most of the members were present they were able to vote for a representative to the Activities Board. Stan Pasda was elected unanimously for the position. Members are urged to participate in these luncheons to improve their conversation.

Penn State To Be Host To NAACP

On April 9 and 10 the Penn State Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will be host to a conference of college NAACP chapters and people from all Pennsylvania colleges who would like to form NAACP chapters on their campuses.

The ultimate aim of NAACP is to eliminate racial discrimination in America through programs and projects designed to bring the problem before the eyes of the public and to point out the necessity for eliminating discrimination.

Those who consider this a worthy goal are urged to participate in the conference. There they will meet people from many Pennsylvania colleges and will be able to discuss with them ways in which to eliminate discriminatory problems.

Fiddle Squeak

Greetings, hepcats! Here is a new column which will bring you the latest in music here at the Center as well as the best selling records and sheet music uptown.

As you may have heard by now, Miss Pearl Garbrick along with two representatives from the Center are attending the National Music Education conference in Baltimore, Md. We hope to have the highlights of this conference in the next Collegian.

Prof. Fishburn, president of the association, has scheduled 119 events for the four-day period so that there will be something of interest to everyone in the music teaching field. The convention will have general sessions and sectional meetings devoted to various levels and fields in music teaching. Concert groups from public schools and colleges from all over the East are attending.

Did you know that the "Genetti Hour" with Fred Houser at the Hammond has left the air for a short while? When N.B.C. schedules are adjusted you may again hear this popular organ wizard over WAZL. Also to change programs is Miss Pearl Garbrick and her "Serenade From the Pen of the Masters." Formerly heard at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday nights, she has switched over to 8:30 p.m. Monday nights in place of Allan Roth.

From Woodring's "Melody Corner" comes the word that "A, You're Adorable" and "Need You," both by Jo Stafford and Gordon McCrae for RCA Victor, are tops on the list of best-selling records. Also high on the list is Galway Bay by Bing Crosby for Decca. On the classic side we find "Ravel's Bolero" by Andre Kostalenez and the "Kyatcheturian Masquerade Suite" out in front. Also classic is "A Night at Carnegie Hall" with Lily Pons, Ezio Pinza and Rise Stevens capably taking care of the vocalization.

To all violin students: If your case is too short, your fiddle sticks out.

PENN CENTER ON THE AIR

The future of Hazleton's Penn State Center was discussed on the program, "The Way It Looks From Here," over WAZL Sunday, March 6. This program is a public service project which is heard every Sunday afternoon at two p.m.

Narrator Bob Sacco had as his guests Atty. Louis Felmann, and administrative and assistant administrative heads Amos Goss and Frank Kostos.

Front And Center

Up front with Hank Zeigler and the latest Center chatter.

Rumors are flying at the Center about this one and that one. The old gossip is really buzzin'! A few of the students in the social light are:

Janet and Joyce who had a hard time getting to the Tournament at Dubois. Just why did they want to go in the first place?

Ed Erotus, an ace at sociology, startled everyone including Dr. Ramsay when he recited in class the other day. But then who wouldn't recite when the subject was Lana Turner? Ed's comment was rather favorable.

A new club has been formed at the Broad Street building called the "Mummy club." It was inspired by a magazine cartoon. Rumor has it that Mr. James Steele is the acting adviser.

Since A. John learned to play pinocle at the beginning of the semester, he has been going at it hot and heavy. He is willing to teach anyone his newly found recreation. Mr. Aruffo can be found in the lounge six hours a day.

Four cars traveled caravan style to York. Joe, the manager, was in Mrs. G's car. She brought up the rear since she wasn't sure of the way. She consulted Joe who was quite sure of the directions. When the group stopped to eat at Childs' Restaurant (which Swish said was "a restaurant for children") Mrs. G was no longer with them. What was the matter, Joe? Get lost?

Speaking of cars, Bob Breisch drove his into a snow bank on James street. Now, wasn't that stupid? Looking at the women again, Bob, or did the snow blind you? Hmmm?

MARY LOU POLLOCK

colleges throughout the country, will enjoy a one-week vacation during the summer in Hollywood with all expenses paid by Twentieth Century-Fox who is sponsoring the contest as a part of its premiere program for the movie, "Mother Is A Freshman."

Miss Pollock is a member of the German and Chemistry clubs and plays the piano. She is a native of Hazleton and was a Master Thespian at the Hazleton Senior High School.

Campus Campaign

A week ago several Hazletonians began spreading the good word among themselves to "vote for Mary Lou." It took about 24 hours for the fire to spread and Saturday morning pictures of Hazleton's entry appeared on every post in the large mess hall serving Nittany Dorms and Pollock Circle.

Friday night a Hazleton boy who attended the Bible Fellowship meeting claimed he had "50 votes lined up." During the weekend Hazleton students were swinging the dorms in line for a last ditch stand for Mary Lou.

The morning that pictures of the five entries appeared, comment heard by Mountain City students in all classes was "The one on the right's the prettiest." The one on the right was Mary Lou.

Working on these encouraging developments, the Pollock backers started a second concentrated drive early Monday morning and the outcome will be known tonight.

Library Corner

In these days of psychoanalysis everyone is entitled to at least one complex. If you wake up in the morning greeting grandma with an axe instead of the usual kiss, we propose you take complete inventory of your personality by reading "A General Introduction to Psychoanalysis" by Sigmund Freud. In it he has given a new conception of infancy, adolescence and character and has provided a better understanding of the unconscious and phenomena of sleep, dreams and reveries. Another of equal enlightenment is "Brain and Intelligence" by Ward C. Halstead who sets forth a new theory concerning the brain and adaptive intelligence. If this supplementary reading hasn't improved your lot we suggest you head for Danville or some similar institution of learning.

Yet perhaps your brains have suddenly become petrified. In this case you are a student of geology. Therefore we solve your problem by recommending Hind's Geomorphology. This book contains abundant illustrations supplement to the detailed information of the origin and evolution of the physical features of the earth. "College Geology" by Chamberlaine and Salisbury has endeavored to present a general story of the earth's history.

Good books are the guide posts on the road to happiness and knowledge. Use the library.

OPENING A NEW BOOK

Here's an adventure! What awaits Beyond these clouded, mysterious gates?

Whom shall I meet, where shall I go?
Beyond the lovely land I know?
Above the sky, across the sea?
What shall I learn and feel and be?
Open, strange doors, to good or ill!
I hold my breath a moment still
Before the magic of your look
What will you do to me, O Book?

Sergeant Gordon On ROTC Staff

A new addition to the college faculty was recently made with the appointment of Master Sergeant Vincent C. Gordon as an instructor for the Center's Reserve Officers training group. Sergeant Gordon will be in charge of the freshman trainees and will conduct classes for that group.

The sergeant has been in the military service for more than seven years, five of which were spent in Europe. During the war he was stationed in numerous areas of England France and Germany. While there he also participated in much of the action that comprised the military campaign on the European continent.

Following the war, he returned to the states and spent an extended period instructing military training in several midwestern colleges.

Only recently he returned to the East and reported to his present assignments as a member of the ROTC staff here at the Center.

Although Sergeant and Mrs. Gordon currently reside in Hazleton the sergeant claims he is actually a native of the "blue grass" state and proudly names Owensboro, Kentucky as his hometown.
