CONVOCATION DINNER, THURSDAY, MAY 28th AT HOTEL ALTAMONT

If you haven't already received your ticket for the Convocation Dinner, get it at the bookstore now. Each student is entitled to one free ticket--the ticket is paid for out of the student activity fee that each student pays at the beginning of the semester. The dinner is scheduled to start promptly at 6:00 p.m., Thursday, May 28th, at the Hotel Altamont. All students attending are requested to be there on time as the program is quite long and the Student Council does not wish to delay the start of dinner, if at all possible.

The main speaker for this annual affair will be Mr. J. O. Keller, head of the Central Extension program at Penn State. There will be various awards given for scholastic excellence in various courses; participation in school activities, varsity basketball, and intra-mural athletics. The awards for Most Valuable Freshman and Most Valuable Sophomore will also be announced at that time by the main speaker, Mr. Keller.

NOTICE TO ALL DRIVERS

The parking regulations will be in effect until the last bluebook is folded away. Don't let the spring weather make you too lazy to walk the hill or else you might find a little pink ticket tucked in the rim of your car window.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR MR. KOSTOS

Don't miss your chance of a life time. Don't be behind in your credits. Be up with the crowd. Right now--at the present time--registration for Economics 14 is taking place. This three-credit course will last only three weeks. It is as good for people behind in credits to catch up in a short time. If taken now, this course (required of all engineers) will relieve the schedule in later years. Everything to gain and nothing to lose--what a course!

AFCOTC SHINES

Undaunted by heavy precipitation from the sky, our own ROTC cadets marched their way, once again, to public acclaim.

The Armed Forces Day Parade was scheduled for 4 p.m. last Saturday. Sky were overcast and the weatherman predicted late afternoon showers.

Sixty-nine Cadets from Highacres formed into their respective flights on Third Street in West Hazleton and waited the command to march.

Then the rain came!!!

In complete order, the entire squadron split and took cover: one flight under some nearby trees and two flights, thanks to the quick thinking of Captain Carper, in a nearby mechanic's garage.

The rain slowed, and the flights were formed once again. The squadron was again ready to move out when more rain fell. Paying no attention to the rain, the parade began. The Air Force group made a column left at the corner of Broad and Third Sts. in West Hazleton and proceeded eastward on Broad Street.
