

AFROTC Scrapbook continued

The fellows assembling the masterpiece are Jack Talaskie, Matthew Golatha and George Mastrian. The book will be completed on Monday. Anyone interested in looking it over is welcome to do so.

Bookstore News

Spanish I students are anxiously awaiting the text books to arrive. Put yourself in the place of Miss Brennan who has to look into "empty-Spanish faces".

Jerry Root thinks the book store should sell ping-pong balls. That's for sure.

What happened to the sweat shirts that were displayed in the window? It seems that the Freshmen girls interest in them has disappeared as quickly as the shirts have.

It looks like the main bulletin board belongs to the book store. Late arrivals must be keeping the clerks busy.

What's Your Hobby?

This is your cub reporter saying Hello to you for the first time. Under the scrutiny of my private eye I discovered that some of the students have hobbies.

Evelyn Tomasko spends her spare moments writing letters to Penn State Campus. To whom Evelyn?

Lillian Junas, the all around girl, prefers photography but the girls all appreciate her harmonica playing in the girl's lounge.

Harriet Tulin spends her spare time knitting argyle socks. Ask Manny Barbeito, he's an authority on the matter.

Shirley Ray, befitting her character is interested in historical novels.

Lois Miller- Enjoys and plays classic music. (Long hair that is.)

John Lawrence is sharpening up his track shoes in the pursuit of his hobby, namely chasing women. (Girls don't play hard to get.)

Another lass, Virginia Muscavitch likes hot-licks on the sax. (Crazy man, crazy.)

Paul George, a General Science student, has an interesting hobby. He likes to work with chemicals. (Beware, He's a dangerous man.)

Perhaps for the next edition I will be fortunate enough to uncover the unique hobbies of some other students. So until then toodle-oo and happy hobbing.

Chippy Chipmunk

Chippy Chipmuck with his bright little eyes,

Is always ready and eager to spy,

On all the students passing by.

Chippy Chipmuck with sharp pointed ears,

Is ever on hand to overhear

Whatever the students say, that's clear.

Chippy Chipmunk with tattling tongue,

Reports what's thought, said, or done,

By you, and me and everyone.

So student's when y u gossip, beware,

Because Chippy Chipmunk might be there.

Believe it or Not

A new specimen found it's home in the "Zoo Lab", a shrew. (we think.)

A Poem ??????

Look at that auto! It is the most.

To it's splendor we must drink a toast.

gadgets galore, seats soft as a sparrow.

You guessed what it is, MR. STEEL'S
PIERCE*ARROW.
