

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE PATS BACKS, KICKS PANTS

Hats off to the students who park their vehicles on the Student Parking Lot! The parking committee commends you for your cooperation with the new system of parking on this lot. Correct parking is especially important during this season.

It is unfortunate, though, that after patting your back, we must kick the pants of few who have been speeding on the campus; a dangerous antic that is taboo here as well as on state highways. The road leading from the highway has a few blind curves that are hard enough to navigate without speeding. The speed limit on the Highacres Campus is 15 miles an hour, and offenders will be fined. DRIVE CAREFULLY AND GRADUATE!

Another item regarding the parking regulations involves the students that have parking permits. If your space is occupied by another car, or snow, you must park on the student lot.

Cooperate with these rules and your permit will be renewed next semester.

SPECTACULAR VERNACULAR

Are you hep to some of the cool sounds of the jumping jive set? Well if you aren't after you've read this column you will be slightly acquainted with a few of the hepstic terms.

A GIBBLEHEAD is a tub who asks stupid questions.

VONSET is the most bubbly new word in the hepsters lexicon because it's an all-inclusive catch-all term meaning practically anything you want it to.

Since all tubs dig feminity, they have a special reserve glossary to cover the subject.

ROONEY is a gal, prefaced by normal adjectives, such as "fine Rooney," "round Rooney," etc.

Well, enough for the vocabularly at present. There is just one little story I would like to relate to you.

There were once a few cats who ventured a trip to the moon. On arrival they were surprised to see five moonmen having a jam session. Unaware of the tune being played, one cat asked inquisitively, "say man, what's that cool melody you guys are rehearsing?" One of the moonman stood up and said "How Low The Earth." Upon hearing this the cats from the earth jumped in their space ship and took off on a cool orbit.

CONVERSATION.

When Ilona Weltman was asked if she heard the latest gossip around campus, she replied, "If its the latest gossip - I started it."

Have you heard that the Ganges River in India has been condemned by health authorities. They said something about Norm Hall contaminating the water by washing his feet in it when he was there the last time.

We heard that Ray Carbe is starting an orchestra. He's going to call it "Ray Banana and his bunch - music with ap-pox."

A question - Does Carolyn Arlotto's boy friend have to buy an adult ticket for her when he takes her to the movies?

When Tommy Breslin heard George M. was on the radio he got jealous and wanted to be on the radio too. Unfortunately his mother told him to get off - He was scratching it.

When Carl Bysura was asked to comment on his Physics Blue Book this corner was found to censure the statement.

One of the girls asked Victor Pituch why he never employed a baby-sitter for his 6 kids, his answer was, (and we quote) "When the kids get done peddling papers on a Saturday night, I make them pick coal."

When Roy Altherholt and Jack Taluskie (ping-pong champions) were defeated by Jackie Cohn and Betti Iffert in ping-pong, their excuse was that they couldn't concentrate on the game.
