NOW HEAR THIS!!

Parking along the driveway, either going up or going down the hill, is prohibited. Although this restriction ( to protect flowers and shrubbery and to reduce accident hazards ) was published in the campus parking regulations, the rule is repeated here because softball season tempts some drivers to violate this regulation. Regulations are in force during game time as well as during the day.

CUSTOMS OF AMISH SECT THEME OF DR. MOOK

Thursday afternoon the Sociology class of Miss Dossenbach was visited by Dr. Maurice Mook, Associate Professor of Anthropology at Penn State University. Dr. Mook outlined the origin and history of the Amish people and slides were shown to illustrate his talk. Many interesting items concerning the dress, habits, customs and religion of this strict sect were reviewed and the discussion was thoroughly enjoyed by all the students. Mr. Longo and Mr. Peightal aided the profesor by running the slides.
