

“They usually have fryer food on the weekends. The worst part is that not all people who stay on campus have cars; they can’t even go out to buy good food.”

Aline Niyonkuru

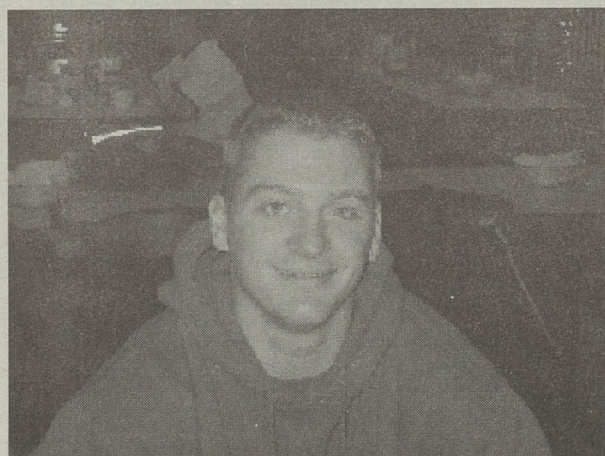

“They should be open until 11pm on the weekends. Students who stay here for the weekend should not be punished with earlier hours. We pay top notch just like any other PSU campus and their dining halls stay open later.”

Chris May

“Cooked meals should be available during weekends. Normal hours are better for the weekend.”

Joe Ridgeway

“There should always be two people working the grill during breakfast on the weekends.”

Joe Nardello

Millstream from page 1

casserole. It’s cold, no flavor, and I’m sick of waiting for the fryer late at night.”

“We are encouraged to stay here on campus on the weekends, yet the hours don’t cater to those who stay,” says Keely Savage. Students reported “being starved” because of the repetitive and extremely limited food choices on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays. The students feel that the hours of operation on the weekend could use some major readjusting.

“Can’t complain, it’s Mont Alto, they’re trying. It’s ok though, I guess it could be worse

Anonymous

Students say that the MSC should remain open until 11pm or 12am - after all, it is the weekend. One anonymous student sometimes becomes depressed when the weekend approaches. She explains, “I think the MSC should be opened later for the people who stay on the weekends, which is a great population. I don’t even have a car here, so when I get hungry after 7pm, I have to find someone and beg them to drive me somewhere to go get some food.” Students should not have to fend for themselves since all campus residents are required to purchase a meal plan.

“They are horrible especially on Friday and Saturday. Housing and food need to realize not everyone goes home. We are sick of starving.”

Anonymous

Penn State MA students pay too much for tuition to not have meal service available on weekend nights. The students have spoken about the MSC weekend operation and they will continue to be aggravated, miserable, and hungry unless changes are made.

“Considering it’s dining hall food, it’s decent. They try to give you as many options as possible without gouging you with the prices.”

Darci Newhouse

Students and family members having fun at the Family Dance hosted by the Adult Learners Club

Photo by Amanda Christman