campus students had about 3.82. Mont Alto Freshman Gwynne Turner states "drinking is something that I do not want to get into" and "it has many consequences and can cause harm to others." The February 2004 survey states 32.1% of the students experienced being insulted or humiliated compared to 27.4 in 2003. In 2004 36.6% had a serious argument, 14.7 % had been pushed, hit, or assaulted. 24.7 percent had their property damaged and 20.5% experienced an unwanted sexual advance. The percentage of students who experienced direct consequences either

"decreased slightly or remained the same since last year." The percentage of students who indicated that they had a hangover dropped from 63.3% in 2003 to 59.8% in 2004. 29.6% of the students in 2003 reported that they missed a class as a result of their own drinking, compared to 25.9% in 2004. About 17% reported engaging in unplanned sexual activity.

According to the 2001 Journal of American College Health, nationally the high risk drinking rate was 44.4%. The North Carolina State University states "nationally, 500,000 students aged 18 to 24 are unintentionally injured due to alcohol use, 1,400 students die each year from alcohol-related unintentional injuries, 70,000 students are victims of alcohol-related sexual assault or date rape annually."

pay taxes towards the state. Non-Pennsylvania residents pay taxes towards their own state, leaving non-state residents with an extra fee to study in the state of Pennsylvania. University Park allocates each campus about $4,000 each year to be used at the campus' discretions. According to Gill Mont Alto "uses that money for Transportation."

What about parking tickets: does the University take that money too? According to Student Government Association (SGA) Freshman Representative Bella Perez, the money "goes towards SGA" and "This money is given to clubs and organizations on campus." Mont Alto Freshman Antonia Houston stated, "I see results in the activities that are offered on the campus; I can tell that's my money in use. But, it's a problem that people are paying for activities and do not take advantage of the opportunities."
