BOWLERS PLACE THIRD

At our first appearance in the Pennsylvania State University inter-campus bowling tournament, held at the Ogontz Campus, the Delaware County "5" finished third. After a three way tie for first place in matched points (4-1), the team was dropped to third when the officials reverted to the game points column. Capitol and York Campus' finished one two, respectively.

The Delaware Campus, represented by Allen Papsin, David Oescher, Vince Simoni, Steve Heller and Greg Fulginiti rolled up a team average of 164. These five men lead the tournament until late in the third round and put in a good show for the Campus at the Del Ennis Lanes near Ogontz.

RIFLE PRACTICE AT ARMORY

The newly formed Delaware Campus rifle team has drawn a large number of Campus students to its weekly practice meeting. The more than thirty odd members have divided themselves into two teams for their Monday evening meetings at the Chester Armory. The meetings are held between 5:30 and 7:00 PM.

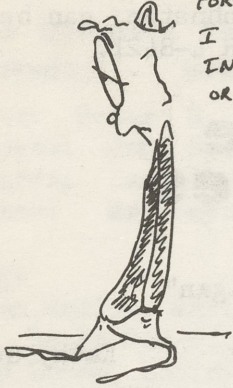

Sargent Jack Balentine, of the Army National Guard has been instructing the team members on the proper handling of guns. Those members who do not bring their own rifles are being allowed to use U.S. Army .22 caliber rifles supplied by Sgt. Balentine. The teams have been organized to eventually enter competition in the Inter-Campus league. The best marksman will soon be representing the campus throughout the state.

Mafia leader who has run off to Acapulco with $500,000 in syndicate secrets concerning the Mexican Herion trade. David McCallum, TV's Illya Kuryakin portrays the narcotics agent with the same subtle method familiar to U.N.C.L.E. fans. Telly Savalas, who of course fits the part of a Mafia leader, plays the part of a cold hearted herion pusher and Ricardo Montalban plays the part of an Acapulco contact man who is lost to corruption. The characters proceed to run all over the town shooting and killing each other with the motive provided by the money in the drug trade.
