SOPHOMORE WORKS ON M.A. DEGREE DURING SUMMERS

Many college graduates obtain master's degrees by attending night school or summer sessions while holding a full-time job as an accountant, a reporter or an engineer. Rarely is it accomplished by a full-time undergraduate college student.

Ernest Repice, 19, a sixth term sophomore at the Delaware County Campus, is in the process of doing just that.

Repice, a Spanish major at Penn State, graduated from South Philadelphia High School in June, 1967. He had studied Italian for four years at high school and his teacher, Mr. Nicholas F. DiArenzo, was so impressed with Repice's achievement that he suggested graduate school during the summers.

With a strong recommendation from DiArenzo and a formal application Repice was admitted into the 1968 summer session at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont. Middlebury is a four-year liberal arts college which serves as a graduate language school during the summers. Graduate programs are offered in French, Italian, Spanish, German, Russian and Chinese.

After completing his freshman year at the Delaware County Campus, Repice attended his first graduate courses at Middlebury. He was one of three undergraduates admitted into the Italian program which had a total enrollment of 70.

He successfully completed six graduate credits and will tackle eight more this summer, which will bring him half-way through his master's program.

Unfortunately, that's as far as he can go without his bachelor's degree. The B.A. is required before the advanced degree can be granted.

After completing his B.A. in Spanish (he also has 15 credits in French under his belt), Repice hopes to finish his master's program in Florence, Italy, under a study abroad program sponsored by Middlebury.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Repice, 2229 S. Darien Street, Philadelphia.

The students receiving the berets were: John Zaprala, William Hewitt, Edward Hollingsworth, David Alessi, James Wood, Charles Hackett, Edward Cavanaugh, Philip Moore, John Murray, Leonard Schuler, Kenneth Giza and Thomas Evans.

Michael Borraccini, Charles Ziccardi, Anthony Salvatore, Joseph Przygodzinski, Robert Patterson, John Capece, William Smith, John Hatman, George Hendrickson, James West and William Celins.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED FOR SUMMER TERM

Sixteen courses in various subject areas will be offered to undergraduates during the summer term, according to John D. Vairo, campus director.

All courses will be held on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday schedule at the campus. The ten-week summer term begins on June 26, 1969 and ends on September 5, 1969.

Among the course offerings in the College of the Liberal Arts are introduction to microeconomic analysis, principles of economics, the writing of ideas, American history up to 1865, humanities, government and politics in modern society, introduction to logic, social problems, intergroup relations, and effective speech.

College of Science course offerings include biological sciences, techniques of calculus and introduction to linear algebra.

Elementary business statistics and international business will be offered for two-year associate degree students.

The basic Army R.O.T.C. course and men's physical education will also be offered.

SPRING THING FORMAL SCHEDULED FOR MAY 10

"The Spring Thing"—a formal dinner-dance sponsored by the Student Government Association—will be held May 10 at the George Washington Motor Lodge, King of Prussia.

One of the highlights of the evening will be an awards ceremony at which time students will be recognized for their outstanding achievements in scholarship, athletics, and various extra-curricular activities.

The winners of the student awards were selected by a faculty-staff committee composed of Dean Edward F. Linder, Mrs. Anne Karmatz, Mr. Edward M. Gehring, Mr. Robert Spickler, Mr. Joseph G. Biscontini, Dr. A. Gregory Morris and Mr. Arthur Martindale.

The full-course dinner will be served at 8:30 P.M. and will be followed by the awards ceremonies and dancing.

Music will be provided by The Community, a seven-piece rock band. Three students at the Delaware County Campus—Joseph Renzetti, Nick Fantazzi, and Joseph Barbuto—are members of the group. (See feature, Page 3.)

Tickets for the affair are available from Ed Onorato, SGA social chairman, or from special tables which will be set up near the SGA office.

The attendance is not restricted to Delaware County Campus students, according to Onorato. He urged both men and women students at the campus to feel free to invite escorts from outside the campus if they so desire.

23 Army ROTC Cadets Earn Black Beret in Ranger Program

Twenty-three Army ROTC cadets at the campus have received black berets, admitting them into the Army's special forces Ranger Program.

The cadets received the distinction after a vigorous 10-week training period which included both classroom instruction and training in counter-guerilla operations. The training program included map reading, land navigation, first aid and hand-to-hand combat. The training was held at the Ogontz Campus.

The Ranger Program is an extra-curricular unit within the basic ROTC program. There are 48 men enrolled in the ROTC program at this campus.

In addition to successfully completing the classroom and field work, each cadet must present himself before a board of review for an oral examination. The last board consisted of Major Peter Van Dine, Dean Edward F. Linder, C.O. William Hewett and 1st Sgt. William Smith.

The presentation of the berets was made by Lt. Col. Joseph Kay, assistant professor of military

Y.A.F. Chairman Submits Eight Requests to Campus

Members of the Delaware County Campus chapter of Young Americans For Freedom have submitted a list of eight requests to the administration of the campus. The requests were submitted to Campus Director John D. Vairo and Dean of Student Affairs Edward F. Linder, Jr.

The requests were submitted on behalf of the Y.A.F. by Joseph Bacanskas, acting chairman.

The text of the Y.A.F. paper follows:

"Pursuit of academic excellence being the prime purpose of the University, the YOUNG AMERICANS FOR FREEDOM issue the following requests:

1) That solicitation for councilmen shall not be started (by the SGA) until at least the third week of the first term.

2) That there be a defined policy in regards to the letting of rooms for student activities established and made public.

3) That SGA shall not require a representative at its meetings from any independently chartered student group unless said group is directly subsidized through SGA.

4) That an elective course be given, in the form of an Undergraduate Thesis, in which the student has the freedom to pursue a particular subject which interests him. The student shall meet with his advisor on the subject and determine how it is to be dealt with and at what length. It shall be a one, two, or three-credit course at the discretion of the advisor and the depth in which the student wishes to research.

5) That NEED be abolished, as the criterion for any University scholarships and a standardized test be instituted in order to judge whom the scholarships are to be awarded. The test should be made available to all students and their academic ability should be the criterion for the scholarships.

6) That registration be streamlined so that the students will not
