Need Financial Aid? See Dean Johnson for information. Room "C" in the Student Affairs building.

The old lounge in the main building has been converted into a Library-Learning Center in which small group study is both permitted and welcome. The Library as always is reserved for individual study. Food and drink are prohibited from both areas, however. While you are in the Library, take a look at the new display on the Bicentennial.

HELP WANTED: DEAD OR ALIVE! Want to get involved in a worthwhile activity to benefit YOU the student? Want to help your fellow classmates get ahead? If you would like to help and have a few hours a term to spare why not train to be a counselor for the Educational Policies Commission? As a counselor, you will help in answering questions commonly asked concerning pre-registration, courses, etc., as well as aid students in preparing their pre-registration schedule. All this after one short training session. For more information contact Kate Connell in the U.S.A. office (Room "A" in Student Affairs).

U.S.A. Encourages Student Involvement

From: Kate Connell

Beginning this Fall Term, the S.G.A. (Student Government Association) takes on a new name and a new office. Although it is now titled the U.S.A. (Undergraduate Student Association). The organization itself has not changed in any way.

Although they have been working in their respective positions since the end of Spring Term, this term is the first opportunity that most students at P.S.U. Del-Co have had to meet with the Executive Council: Steve Winckelman (Pres.); Kate Connell (V.P.); Mark Steinberg (Sec.); and Elynn Whilden (Treas.).

Always Open

The new U.S.A. office is located in Room "A" of the Student Affairs modular. It is always open, both to those desiring aid, and those wishing to help. The Board wishes to extend a welcome to all students both new and old, with the added hope that you as a student will get involved in your organization - the U.S.A.

This is to not only provide the necessary feedback concerning the current programs, but to also provide for an influx of new ideas, as well as to provide the people power necessary to successfully carry out ANY project.

Just as the Exec. Council has a responsibility to the students it represents, each student in turn has a responsibility to contribute to the U.S.A.

Board Of Trustees Rejects Penn P. I. R. G. Proposal

Pennsylvania Public Interest Research Group, a cousin of Ralph Naders' COMMON CAUSE, is a student movement in Pennsylvania whose objective is to establish a statewide network of consumer protection offices. These offices shall be maintained by students on a local level who feed problems into the state board of P.I.R.G. The state board decides which problems are to be handled locally and which are to be channeled into the professionals in Harrisburg.

The local board, elected by the students, will not only serve as a link between students and the state board, but will also mobilize and supervise the campus resources for projects as well as cooperate with other campuses and community groups in his/her capacity.

Participating students are responsible for electing a representative from each Commonwealth campus as well as six from University Park, who in conjunction with other representatives will make up the state board. The state board is responsible for the hiring of the professional staff plus the evaluation and handling of all projects. These professionals, such as lawyers, engineers, natural and social scientists, will be engaged not only in research investigations, but also in lobbying and litigation procedures. There is also an administrative executive, hired by the board, who is in charge of all proceedings during breaks.

The group petitioned the Board of Trustees at P.S.U. for acceptance into the University system for funding purposes. Acceptance is necessary for the initiation of the proposed funding mechanism. The petition was received favorably by the Educational Policies Committee of the Board of Trustees but was rejected by the Board itself a short time later.

If approved, funds would come from contributions of $2 from each student at the start of each term. If a student doesn't care to back Penn P.I.R.G. financially, he will have his money refunded upon request.

To advance Penn P.I.R.G.'s cause, Ralph Nader made a personal appearance at this campus. His talk convinced many students that Penn P.I.R.G. was a worthwhile cause so that they would sign the petition that was then delivered to the Board of Trustees.

However, since the proposed funding mechanism has been rejected for the time being, the infant group is arranging benefit concerts to raise funds. These concerts will be made by prominent artists who are donating their time to help Penn P.I.R.G.

All problems will be welcome as Penn P.I.R.G.'s projects will be made up not only of individual student problems such as rent increases, but of entire community

Modular Units Supply Needed Space

The newest addition to Penn State University, Delaware County Campus, the modular buildings located near the third parking lot, are now completed and ready for operation.

Nearest the main building is the Student Affairs building which has two of the essentials of Penn State--food and pinball machines. The third wing of the building contains several offices. They are listed below:

- A - U.S.G.
- B - Storage
- C - Financial Aid
- D - Career Development and Placement Counseling
- E - E.O.P.
- F - Veteran's Affairs
