

Keystone Society Invites Participation In Student, Community Service

From: Jon Temple

On behalf of the Keystone Society, it is my pleasure to welcome all our freshmen to this campus and welcome back all our sophomores.

Now that the officiality is over, I'd like to make you all aware of an organization from which you will be hearing much more during the coming year. It is the ALPHA XI OMEGA chapter of The Keystone Society.

The Keystone Society is basically a community and student service organization. What we do is organize and sponsor events that are usually of an entertaining nature. The money that we raise from these events is then used to benefit some charity within the community.

For example, with funding from the U.S.A., The Keystone Society organized a night of casino-type games, and all proceeds went into the Metzgar Boys Trust Fund. (Last year the Metzgar family, four boys and their mother, were allegedly kidnapped by the estranged Mr. Metzgar and taken to New York. He then allegedly murdered Mrs. Metzgar and abandoned the boys. Now they are living in foster homes in the Media area and a trust fund has been established for their education.) On another occasion, when the Honduras were hit with catastrophic floods, The Keystone Society held a car wash and sent the money raised to the Honduras Flood Relief Fund.

Those are just two of the organizations that Keystone has helped. Keystone has also held numerous soft pretzel sales, a collection for the Easter Seals Society, a food collection at Christmas for the underprivileged, used book sales (a real break from high book prices), and a Bloodmobile for the American Red Cross.

THIS YEAR we are starting off with a used book sale. This is the way it works. In the first floor hall there is a large piece of poster board. This board has slits cut in it to accommodate 3 x 5 cards ONLY. On a 3 x 5 card write the name of the book you wish to sell and its author, the edition and the course name, and your name and phone number. Slip this card into the slits. Students desiring to buy books should then get in touch with the owners personally. Please do not post notices on the bulletin boards or the walls.

In another vein (?), the Keystone Society is organizing a Bloodmobile for the American Red Cross on Wed., September 24, 1975. Our goal is to acquire coverage for everyone on campus for one year. To do so we need 20% of our students, faculty, and administration to donate. If we don't reach our goal, each donor and his immediate family will still receive coverage for the year.

Sign up at the end of the registration line. Otherwise, you can stop in to see the nurse anytime in the health office on the first floor of the main building, next to the Study Lounge (where the Bloodmobile will be held).

Finally, if you're interested in helping with any Keystone activities to see what we're like, you can do so under no obligation whatsoever. Simply leave your name and phone number with someone in the U.S.A. office, or contact either Dr. Jane Cooper in Rm. 314A or call Jon at SU 9-8564.

Clubs Welcome New Members

RIFLE CLUB

Tired of wasting your money on those "shoot-em-down" rifle games in arcades? Well, get with the real thing! Join Delaware County Campus' Rifle Club and learn target shooting with a .22 caliber small bore rifle.

Last year, there were roughly 40 students in the club and this year they hope for more. The $5.00 annual membership fee covers ammunition, equipment, and rifles (all provided by the club) as well as the club's annual picnic. Expert training and instruction with the weapon are provided by Sgt. Phillip Fairman. And those who become real sharpshooters are eligible to join the Rifle Team.

There is also competition between the sexes for the best shot.

The Rifle Club is both challenging and fun so be sure to join for the coming school year.

DRILL TEAM

The Campus Drill Team, better known as the Rangerettes, is off to its second year. With several meets already in the making, the team has great expectations.

Last year, they attended three major drill competitions (in New York, Cincinnati, and University Park) that provided valuable experience to them.

Under the command of Michele Olivant, the Rangerettes are proud to represent Penn State in inter-collegiate competitions. Members enjoy traveling and meeting new people.

Students interested in joining should watch for the sign-up notices at the end of the first week of school.

PSEA (STUDENT)

PENNSYLVANIA STATE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Their Motto: Helping teachers teach.

PSEA is for anyone who is the least bit interested in education. It exposes the education major to all phases of the teaching experience. All others have a chance to affect, with their vote, the policies which influence and guide their own teachers.

Activities include trips to NEA Headquarters in Washington, D.C., tutoring young children, educational projects for the young, e.g. PROJECT BUBBLE.

Open to anyone who is involved in the educational system of the Western Hemisphere. For information, call Ingrid Putschi at (1)-935-9351.

Special Activities Planned For Coming School Year

The Del. Co. Campus offers more for the interested student than meets the eye. The Student Activities Committee, working under the U.S.A. (Undergraduate Student Association) is seeing to that.

Films, including the ones being shown the first day of Registration, are scattered throughout the coming months along with Coffee Houses featuring such performers as Jim Price, Stan Shephard, and Emmitt Robinson.

Welcome back to PSU Del. Co. all you lucky sophomores and kids who missed their chances at "The Park". Better luck next term. As for you freshmen (freshpersons?), I know you have plenty to learn about this place and probably already have enough material to re-paper your rooms with, so it might do you some good to meet someone who's roamed these halls longer than most of us and still hasn't registered. None other than our dyed-in-the-fur mascot, George.

ME: Hey, George! Have you met any of our new recruits?

GEORGE: Shh! I've been avoiding them since orientation. Don't blow my cover.

ME: Come on, George! These kids need some help.

GEORGE: So do I. I think I hurt something my last trip to the modular buildings.

ME: The mods? What's up there?

GEORGE: SURVIVAL! LIFE! The basic needs for existence!

ME: Gee, I didn't know you felt that strongly about the bookstore.

GEORGE: Books?! I'm talking about my daily occupation, man. Eating!

ME: There are other things on campus more important than food. What about classes?

GEORGE: Okay. But wait till you're stuck here from 1st to 6th period and the snow's higher than your tail...

ME: Only dogs have tails.

GEORGE: I don't know. By some of the reasoning behind the changes around here, I'm beginning to believe that Burger King isn't the only home of the Whopper!

ME: Isn't that being a little hard?

GEORGE: Listen. The only thing I can see that's HARD is hearing a two-hour lecture over some kid's grumbling stomach cause he couldn't make it up and back in 10 minutes. And if he's got a full day, then it's gonna be HARD to pick him up off the floor when he passes out.

ME: That's stretching things a little.

GEORGE: No, that's stretching things a lot! Like past the third parking lot.

ME: I was depending on you to give these kids advice, not complaints.

GEORGE: Okay. There's this new cookbook out called "How to Serve Man". It might solve some problems. The first chapter suggests taking a fat friend to lunch. If you're not that hungry, take a thin friend.

ME: They're not serious?

GEORGE: Funny. That's what I keep saying about things here.

ME: Do you have any enlightening words you would like to bestow on us before departing our presence?

GEORGE: Stuck with English 3 again, huh?

ME: How about some parting words.

GEORGE: Life is like a see-saw. It has its ups and downs, but without it, the playground is boring.

Chow!

Parties, serving as a great outlet for meeting people and a personal source of entertainment, are supplied during October and December with the Halloween and Christmas Parties.

For those who like off-campus fun there are Hay Rides and Road Rallies. In the past there have also been group sales to Spectrum concerts. This year, with a little more student involvement, there will be others.

Student Activities works for the student and without the student there is nothing. There are many more ideas still in the planning stage and a possible hundred not thought of. Any student wishing to participate, give suggestions, or knowing of anyone who would be good for the Coffee Houses, contact Sue Siciliano or Kathy White in the U.S.A. office in the Modular Building.

HEY, KIDS!

THERE'S A LOT OF GREAT STUFF IN THE LION'S EYE, BUT IT COULD BE MORE

INTERESTING WITH RESPONSES AND ARTICLES WRITTEN BY YOU. SEEN A GOOD CONCERT, SHARE IT WITH US. KNOW A FUNNY OR PECULIAR STORY, LET US LAUGH TOO. OR IF YOU JUST WANT TO RAP ABOUT SOMETHING, LET US KNOW.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR WRITERS, TYPISTS AND CARTOONISTS. SUPPORT ME AND THE STAFF IN GETTING YOUR PAPER OUT. LEAVE YOUR NAME IN THE LION'S EYE OFFICE IN THE MODULAR BUILDING NOW!

I'LL BE LOOKING FOR YOU.

MY FIRST STAR

By: Susan M. Siciliano

The gentle hum of passing cars floats through my mind. I stare into the clear sky and full moon and as always, I think of you.

One light shy and lonely stares back from the emptiness and I follow what lovers and fools have been doing for ages. . . "Star light, star bright. . ."

My wish, as my thought, is always the same and I smile, hopeful for a moment that by some miracle known as faith it will be answered.

And then my first star appears to drop a little, make a left and land at a nearby airport.

Oh well, you were never very romantic anyway.
