

Test Your Potential

Please follow directions carefully.

Hold the square printed below to your face and blow on it for at least ten seconds.

That done, read on...

*If the square turned yellow, see your doctor.

*If it turned brown, see your dentist.

*If it turned purple, see your teacher.

*If it turned red, see your banker.

*If it turned blue with pink stripes, see your psychiatrist.

*If it turned white, see your lawyer and make a will.

•But if it remained a black square, there is nothing wrong with you, and you will be expected to be at school every school day on time.

Licenses to have Color Photos

Harrisburg -- During the next four years, the state will replace paper drivers' licenses with plastic licenses bearing color photos.

Also, the license period will be extended from two to four years.

"During the phase-in period, licenses that end in an even number will be renewed with the new four-year photo license," said Jack Zogby, deputy secretary of the Department of Transportation.

Licenses ending in odd numbers will be renewed once more using a two-year paper license, he said.

Motorists will receive plastic licenses in the mail and will then have 60 days to have their picture taken at a designated location. More than 80 sites will be set up across the state for the state's 1.8 million drivers.

The state has signed a four-year, $11-million contract with Dek-Electro of Fort Wayne, Ind., to provide the facilities and equipment for the program. The contract says no motorist should live more than 45 minutes from a photo location.

The annual cost of licenses will increase from $5 to $6.50. The cost of a four-year license will be $21.50.

The licenses will be similar to those used in 42 other states and the District of Columbia.

Album Review

Shape of Things to Come?

Now that the year 1980 is almost upon us, it's nice to know that the future of rock music is still in good hands. One can foresee this future in Bob Dylan's new album, Slow Train Coming. Dylan has been a heavy influence on many artists throughout the years. This particular release will have a definite impact upon new talent as well as established artists in the years to come.

Earlier in the year, Dylan converted to Christianity, so plenty of his fans and critics alike were anxious to see if his latest compositions would reflect it. At first I was skeptical. I had been disillusioned with George Harrison's mixture of religion and music. I feared that the mixture might interfere with Dylan's music also.

No chance! Slow Train Coming is a brilliant stepping stone in his career.

The album opens with Gotta Serve Somebody. In the song Dylan doesn't preach, but rather, he tells it like it is:

*You're gonna have to serve somebody
Well it may be the devil
Or it may be the Lord
But you're gonna have to serve somebody*

A fine story teller, Dylan continues this tradition with the beautiful ballad, I Believe In You. Reminiscent of his classis, Girl From North Country, his vocals on this particular track make it the most emotional on the entire album.

The most inspiring tune on the album is Precious Angel. This powerful song has quite an impact on the listener. Dylan conveys messages about our present human condition and how he was guided by an angel.

*My so-called friends
They've fallen under his spell
They look me squarely in the eye
And they say well all is well.*

It's a very forceful song. Back-up on the album is provided by Mark Knofler and Pick Withers of Dire Straits. Knofler's guitar style shines brightly on every track, especially on Slow Train.

This is Dylan's most influential work since The Freewheelin' Bob Dylan in 1962. With the fine production team of Jerry Wexler and Barry Becket (producers for Otis Reading and Aretha Franklin), Bob Dylan is still going strong; and there seems to be no end in sight. The title Slow Train Coming might be interpreted as an omen.

Elton John Collapses

Rock singer Elton John fainted on stage during a concert last month before 5,200 fans at the Universal Amphitheater in Los Angeles. John later returned to his bright red piano and completed his concert.

The British entertainer passed out in the middle of his three-hour show but refused treatment by fire department paramedics called to the theater, according to a spokesman. The spokesman said John had been suffering from the flu. Elton John is scheduled to appear in Philadelphia at the Tower Theater November 2 and 3.

McCartney's Record

Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney has been sighted in the latest edition of the Guinness Book of World Records for being the most successful song writer in terms of sales of single records. McCartney has written 42 songs selling more than one million records each with the Beatles and later with Wings. McCartney's personal favorite, Yesterday, was originally entitled Scrambled Eggs.

Got The Knack

The Tower Theater is sold out (approximately 3,000 seats) for the Philadelphia debut of The Knack tomorrow night. Tickets went on sale Saturday, September 29 and were sold out in one hour.

DISCO NEWS

Disco Dancing - Dangerous

Caution: Disco dancing may be hazardous to your feet! "Twenty-five percent of the ankle sprains and bursitis-type foot problems we see today are related to dancing," notes Dr. Joseph D'Amico, chairman of New York College of Podiatric Medicine's Division of Orthopedic Sciences, in a recent issue of Us Magazine. D'Amico cites three sources of disco foot: slippery dance floors, bizarre footwear (platform shoes and stiletto heels), and a simple lack of preparation. The doctor notes that dancing is a maximum stress situation and shouldn't be done without warm-up exercises.

Disco Club

More than a dozen Texas A&M U. students dressed in dancing shoes and their John Travolta finest were confused when they showed up for a scheduled meeting of the A&M "Disco Association" - most of those in the room were dressed in very undisciplined cut-offs and tee-shirts. The confusion, it turned out, was the result of a typographical error in the announcement column of the student newspaper. The dancers headed home, leaving the campus "Disc Association" - the Frisbee Club - to go about its business.
