Et cetera In The Nation...

College Boards Time

Area high school students will join more than one million others throughout the world in taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) this fall. Those taking the test may also participate in the College Boards Student Service Search which gives students the opportunity to hear from colleges they might not otherwise know of. A booklet containing information about test scores, financial aid and general college planning will be included with the test.

Papers Cut

The Southland Corporation - operator of 7-Eleven stores throughout the Nation - has ordered its company stores to stop selling cigarette rolling papers. According to Jerry Thompson, president of Southland Corporation, the selling of roll-your-own papers "gives credibility to the use of drugs, an area in which I don't want my company associated." Those stores owned by the corporation were required to cease selling the papers by October 1. Although franchisees are not obligated to honor the order, "We recommend that franchisees don't carry them," confirmed Greg Lyman, 7-Eleven district manager.

Dorm Damages

Student government officials at the State U. of New York - Stony Brook charge that in relocating 45 students to separate dorms across campus in the wake of a $14,000 vandalism spree last spring, the university acted in "an arbitrary and capricious manner" which violated its own student conduct code.

An injunction filed by the student government to stop the relocation plan was denied early in September by a state supreme court judge. A student government official says the case of the "Stony Brook Boat People" won't die there. "We'll take it to trial," vows Jay Schoenfeld. "It's a matter of student rights."

Another method of dealing with dorm damages, billing repair costs to residents as a group, is also under fire on another campus. Two U. of Maryland students say they are filing small claims court actions to get back money they were assessed for group dorm damages.
