letters to the editor

Dear Editor:
It is a shame that the campus seals have been stolen. What I'd like to know is whose idea was it to spend $1,800 on them in the first place?
We students have much more immediate needs than putting up a polished front for the community. A vending machine that makes something resembling real coffee would be a start...or perhaps a proper drainage system so that our shoes don't get ruined every time it rains...or nutritious food for lunch.

I'm sorry, not for the loss of the University seals, but for the fact that our school is so insensitive to our basic needs.
— Lee Wilson

thousands of dollars on a little brick wall, while the wheel alignment and tires on our cars continue to be damaged daily.
Each term, we are ripped-off for $10 to "maintain the campus parking lot." When does this "maintenance" take place?

A Bloody Day on Campus

On Wednesday, April 2, the Student Lounge on campus became a Red Cross Bloodmobile where students, faculty, and staff members contributed to a worthwhile cause.
Every day, nearly 1,300 pints of blood are needed at the 113 hospitals in the Penn-Jersey Region. Eighty-five percent of this requirement is supplied by Red Cross donors.
However, not everyone can donate blood. A donor must weigh at least 110 pounds and be between the ages of 18 and 65. In addition, the Red Cross performs a health check on every donor for his/her own safety and that of the recipient.

This health check includes blood pressure, pulse, and body temperature readings and questions pertaining to the donor's medical history. Many potential donors are turned away.

CDPC Offers On-Campus Recruiting

For the second consecutive year, the Career Development and Placement Center, under the direction of counselor Steven M. Scisicione, has provided placement services for the two-year graduates of the Electrical Engineering Technology program.
The placement service started out as an instructional program to teach the students how to write good resumes and how to better understand the interviewing process. This particular phase of the service was designed to help the students when representatives from interested companies came out to the campus to interview prospective employees.
This year representatives came from the Philadelphia Electric Company on January 3, United Technical Associates on February 7, the AVCA Company on February 14, and the Hewlett-Packard Company on April 2. E.I. Dupont DeNemaurs and Company and the Electronic Data Systems, Inc., joined United Technical Associates and the Hewlett-Packard Company in last year's program.
The eleven students who participated in last year's placement service are currently employed in their fields. The average starting salary for those students was $12,900. Similar success is expected for this year's graduates.
