

G.A.G. Focuses On Problems of Planet Earth

By Chuck Spector

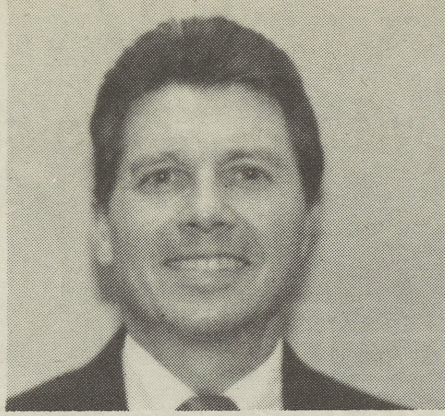

Think of all the problems that we students have: tests, social relationships, teachers, parents, and so on. All of these problems will sooner or later be resolved.

Now think of all the problems the planet Earth has: deforestation, global warming, ozone depletion, to name a few. Will all of these problems sooner or later be solved? Yes they will, with your help.

There are many groups and organizations that we students can join to help save the Earth. Most of these cost money. However, there is one group which costs nothing but a little of your time and effort. This group is the Global Awareness Group right here on campus.

The club works to gather information on the danger affecting the planet Earth and to learn ways to lessen the damage, to know for themselves and to share this vital information with others.

If you feel that any of the Earth's problems concern you in some way, help Delco's G.A.G. do something about them. Come sit in on the first meeting of the fall semester on Wednesday, August 28 at 12:30 pm in the Lion's Den. The club is open to all students, faculty, and staff. Don't just think about the Earth's problems, get involved and do something about them.

Three Campus Faculty Members Promoted to Assistant Professor

Three campus faculty members received promotions from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor over the summer months. They are Dr. Mary M. Gergen, Dr. Alan Horwitz, and Dr. Nancy J. Wyatt.

Dr. Gergen, a member of the Psychology Department and the Women's Studies Program, has been at the Penn State Delaware County Campus since 1984. She received her Doctorate in Psychology from Temple University and her Master's and Bachelor's Degrees from the University of Minnesota. Before coming to Penn State, she had taught at the University of Maryland Overseas Division, Temple, Widener University, and Swarthmore College.

Dr. Horwitz, a member of the Mathematics Department, received his Doctorate, Master's, and Bachelor degrees from Temple University. Before coming to the Delaware

BA Instructor Barrett Wins Outstanding Teacher Award

by Ed McFall

Richard T. Barrett, an Instructor in Business Administration, was named Penn State Delco's Outstanding Teacher of the Year for 1990-91 at the Honors Convocation in April.

Mr. Barrett joined the Penn State faculty in 1983 as an instructor in Management Development at University Park and came to the Delaware County Campus in 1985. He teaches classes in accounting, management, and marketing, both as credit courses and off-campus non-credit courses for Penn State's Continuing Education Division. In fact, he was unable to accept the award in person since he was teaching off-campus at the time of the Convocation.

Before joining Penn State's faculty, Mr. Barrett was manager of management training for Fisher Foods, Inc. He also had served as a member of the personnel development staff for Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration and his MBA from Youngstown State University.

When he announced the award, Dr. Edward Tomezsko, Campus Executive Officer, said Mr. Barrett "joins a long line of exceptional people who are firmly committed to the best ideals of this University." He hailed Barrett for "further building the campus tradition of excellence and for setting the standards for others to follow."

County Campus in 1984, he was a Visiting Assistant Professor of Mathematics at Lehigh University and an Instructor of Mathematics at Drexel University.

Dr. Wyatt, a member of the Department of Speech Communication, has been a member of Delco's faculty since 1985. She received her Doctorate and Master's degrees in Speech Communication from Penn State and her Bachelor's Degree in English Literature from Butler University. Before 1985, Dr. Wyatt was a Graduate Assistant, Public Speaking Coach, and Instructor at Penn State.
