

Saxophobia To Perform At Delco

"Saxophobia" is a saxophone quartet under the direction of Dan Yoder, Associate Professor of Saxophone and Director of Jazz Studies at PSU and one of the performing members of the ensemble.

Other members of the group include Douglas Berstein on Alto, Jim Noyes on Tenor, and Brian Watson on Baritone saxophone.

Saxophobia will be performing at our campus on Thursday, November 21 at 11:30 in 101 Main. This concert is one of a series the group is presenting throughout the state this year.

The repertoire ranges from Bach preludes, to Gershwin tunes, to contemporary Jazz.

Catch Saxophobia at Penn State Delco on November 21.

SADD Looks for Commitment

by Roger Lee

The SADD chapter here at PSU Delco is having a hard time getting off the ground. There are only 12 official members, but according to President Eric Voigt, "I would rather have a few committed people than 100 that don't care." Voigt says the chapter receives state funding, but the only other support it gets are flyers and sales packets.

The chapter plans to expand its recognition on the campus by putting up posters and having a film. The anti-drinking and driving film will be held on October 30, in 101 main. At the start of this year, meetings were held only one time a month. To become more effective, the group decided that the chapter will meet every other Monday, 12:30-1:20 in 217 main. The next planned meeting will be held Monday, November 4.

The goals of SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) are to:

1. Help eliminate the drunk driver and save lives.
2. Alert and inform students of the dangers of drunk driving.
3. Help students deal with the peer pressure which too often promotes reckless and drunken driving.
4. Organize a peer counseling program to help students who may have concerns about alcohol.

SAC Plans Fun and Exciting Events for November

By James Doolittle

With the Fall Semester of 1991 coming to a close, the Student Activities Committee of PSU Delco has a number of events planned to add excitement and fun for the cold month of November.

First up is the Hispanic Heritage Week, currently scheduled to begin on Monday, November 11th. The week will be a celebration of all facets of Hispanic heritage, with special programs focusing on certain aspects of Mexican, Spanish and Puerto Rican culture. The week promises to be as informative as it is fun, and will offer something for everyone.

The next installment of the long running Delco Funnies programs will continue on November 19th, when Bob Garner brings his exceptional comedy and magic show to the campus. Garner's well-designed presentation and showmanship have developed his reputation for quality entertainment on college campuses, comedy clubs, cruise lines and resorts around the world. You'll agree that you are seeing something special when Bob Garner performs at 11:30 a.m. in the Student Lounge, Main.

Another exceptional Cultural Events program will be held on November 21st with Saxophobia. Saxophobia is a saxophone quartet under the direction of Dan Yoder, director of jazz studies at Penn State. From Bach preludes to Gershwin tunes, the program is a pleasurable experience for the mind and the ears and will be held in 101 Main at 11:30 a.m.

The month will conclude with the second installment of the current Leadership Series. This installment focuses on Time Management, and will feature helpful tips on how to successfully manage one's time, specifically in a group context. The program is open to everyone and will be held on November 26th at 11:30 a.m. in the Lion's Den Lounge.

Make time this month to attend these exciting and varied programs. All are free and everyone is invited to attend. If you have any questions see Ms. Tammy Zampogna, Director of Student Activities, in the Lion's Den.

Help Offered for Hesitant Speakers

by Frances Callahan

Penn State Delco students who are afraid or hesitant to speak—to a classmate, a teacher, a class, or before an audience—are fortunate to be in the right place. Dr. Arden Watson, Associate Professor of Speech Communication, is offering a speech class for communication apprehensive students in the spring semester, called Speech Communication 100 A-19.

Dr. Watson has done extensive research, published papers, books, and articles, and even studied other cultures in the world to understand the nature of the fear of communicating and the effect it can have on people's lives.

Dr. Watson knows, for instance, that 20% of Penn State students are apprehensive about speaking. She also knows, sadly, that, for that reason, many will eventually drop out of school. For the same wrong reason, many others will make curriculum choices, choices of majors, career choices, even lifetime mate choices.

Dr. Watson has taught and helped hundreds of students who were reluctant speakers. She urges any student who is shy, or who is fearfully avoiding the required Speech Communication class, to consult her about joining her class for the communication apprehensive student. Don't be afraid—she knows exactly how you feel. She can be reached in her office, Room 212B Main, or by calling her at 892-1427.

Dr. Arden Watson prepares for new course to end fear of speaking.

Photo by: DIANA MICERI

What Ever Happened to The Peace Movement?

by Frances Callahan

The Current Issues Discussion Group will discuss "What Ever Happened to the Peace Movement?" on November 6 in the Library Lounge from 12:30 to 1:30. The discussion will be lead by Dr. John Kovach, Professor of Sociology, and Sara Whildin, Head Librarian.

All interested persons are welcome to attend, listen, and contribute to the discussion.

Sometime in January, the same group will discuss "Homosexuality." Watch the Lion's Eye or the bulletin boards for more details as they become available.