how you say - Ze Doctor of Love! Here today to answer your every rrrromantic needs.

Q. Dear Doctor Love, My boyfriend is the sweetest thing in the world! But when he is around his friends, he acts differently towards me, like I'm stupid or something. What should I do?

Q. Dear Love Doctor, Valentine's Day is almost here and I have no one to spend it with. When I come on to a girl they look at me like I'm disgusting. Any suggestions for helping me pick up the ladies?

- Lost and Lonely

A. Fret not, little one, for I tell you what to do. Next time whisper softly - sensually - zeductively into her ear with theez words: "Vous avez mon Coeur dans ton main. Si je mourias, c'est parse-ce vous avez tomber il. Je-t-adore, mon, caoutchouc canard.

It is, my friend, your duty to be bold and tell them who you are, letting them know gently why their love could never be. In the end you will be true friends, and more importantly, true to yourself.

Q. Dear Love Doctor, My girl wants me to write her poetry and I'm as illiterate as they come! Give me something romantic to write her, please!
