Counseling offered on campus

If you are having problems that are interfering with academic performance, counseling may be able to help.

The following are some of the reasons students come to counseling: depression, anxiety, stress management, relationships, support and guidance.

Counseling for Penn State Delaware County students is free.

If you wish to make a counseling appointment call the Student Life office at (610) 892-1270 and Dale Soring will schedule the appointment. You can also make an appointment via e-mail SLB38@psu.edu.
