

Eye On Campus

Dinosaur of the Month Crossword Puzzle

Across

1. A branched candlestick holding many candles
2. The animal responsible for the death of Steve Irwin
5. Creek
8. The proper term for a "flying comma"
10. This country recently experienced a military coup during UN meetings
11. The number of majors offered at this campus
12. The name given to the football game of this past weekend
15. Upon questioning children, members of the opposite sex have these
17. Bars during the prohibition
19. The study of disease
20. The study of formal debate

Down

1. Located in 202 Commons
2. Overly flowery in speech or writing
4. One of the biggest drawbacks to skydiving without a parachute
6. Penguins most certainly DON'T do this well
7. The streetname given to the new entranceway
9. The amount of dollars clubs receive if they complete a community service activity(spelled out)
13. C₁₇H₁₉NO₃
14. Of the words "rodent" and "weasel," the one that isn't "rodent"
16. The event taking place at Ridley Creek State Park on the 14th of October
18. A condition often referred to by pirates which is caused by vitamin D deficiency. It is characterized by bleeding gums and welts on the skin.

By Dr. Andrew Walter D.D.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

Dinosaur of the Month

The numbers in the crossword correspond with the dinosaur's name. Use them to help solve the puzzles.

Stumped??? Email me at DrAndrewWalter@psu.edu

Delco Community Update

Oct 4th: CCP Meeting 202 Commons	Oct 6th: NO CLASS!!!!	Murderball	Lounge
Oct 5th: Outdoors Club Camping and activity meeting 202 Commons	Oct 10th: Fireside Music: Ted Dreis	Oct 14th: Camping - Ridley Creek State Park - Outdoors Club	Oct 18th: Illusionist Wayne Hoffman Lion's Den
	Oct 13th: Vairo Viewings:	Oct 17th: SGA Open Meeting - Commons	Oct 19th: Honors Convocation

HDFS Club News

Take Back the Night: Wed., Oct. 11 at 5:30 - 8:30 PM
 A Domestic Violence Awareness program including a t-shirt display created by domestic abuse victims. A cell phone collection will also be held for used cell-phones to raise money to benefit domestic abuse victims. A silent auction will also be held containing revered items including: Maui Jim sunglasses, autographed Philly sports team memorabilia, beauty packages, and more. Complimentary food and drinks will also be provided.

Wake up to Vairo Viewings

By SARAH DIEHM
 Lion's Eye Staff Writer
smd5054@psu.edu

If you asked the average student at Penn State Delco their reasons for going to the Vairo library, you would probably get the same basic response. Most students use the library for studying, a quiet place to relax between classes, research, or to use the computers. The majority of students on our campus are unaware of the wide variety of videos and documentaries that the library has to offer.

To spread awareness campus-wide, a program called the 'Vairo Viewings' was created. There are a variety of films that will be shown over the course of both the Fall and Spring semesters. All of the films are documentaries approximately fifty-five minutes in length, so as to fit within common hour. They are shown on Fridays in the lower level Vairo lounge, and everyone is welcome to attend. The overall goal of the program is to give the titles in the library's collection more exposure. It is hard to claim the success or failure of the program thus far. There have been three showings to date and because it is fairly new, most students haven't heard about it, yet. "If we turned on one or two people [to the films in our collection], that would be great. We're trying to reach whoever we can," commented Sara Whildin, Associate Librarian of the Vairo Library. Not only is the program trying to alert students to the alternate resources that the library has to offer, but the faculty as well. Some professors may find that a particular documentary is relevant to classroom material, and therefore, can suggest that their students attend. The schedule for Vairo Viewings, as well as titles and brief summaries, can be found at http://www.libraries.psu.edu/delaware/vairo_viewings.htm.

When asked why students would take an interest in a program such as the 'Vairo Viewings,' Sara responded, "If they [students] are curious, or wanted to learn about a topic that they know [little or] nothing about, [we can help]." So, when it is common hour on a Friday and you have nothing to do but wait until your next class, why not check out the Vairo Viewings? At the very least it is an entertaining way to pass the time, and you might just learn something!

