The Future of Food

Food is a source of life, a source of conflict.

Join us at any of the following sessions to learn and exchange ideas about one of the vital issues of our time:

February 19: "Fat Free to Free Range: Better Food Choices or Tower of Babel? A Look at Consumer Use of the Food Label."
- Nancy Childs, professor of food marketing, Saint Joseph's University

March 3: No Refrigeration Necessary? The Stability and Safety of Canned Food.
- Paul Walker, professor of agricultural engineering, Penn State University

March 31: "Is a Sustainable Food System Possible and Might Food Citizens Take the Lead?"
- Fred Kirschenmann, professor of religion and philosophy, Iowa State University; president, Stone Barns Center for Food and Agriculture

April 14: Food Policy as Foreign Policy: Security and Sustainability in the 21st Century.
- Deanna Behring, director of international programs, Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences; former senior policy analyst, White House Office of Science and Technology

*All lectures will be held at 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m. in the Commons Building, Rm 203

MARCH FOR BABIES A PENNY DONATED IS AN INFANT SAVED

Penn State Brandywine will be participating in the Riddle Park March for Babies Walk sponsored by the March of Dimes. In order to meet our team goal of $500 we will be collecting pennies. Just think of how quickly your spare change can add up to make a different in a baby's life. Bring your pennies to Office of Student Affairs between now and April 17th.
