Aries March 21 to April 19

Things are a lot more settled across the board this week, giving you a chance to catch your breath and put things into perspective. In fact, it's a Full Moon in your romantic sector on Friday that allows you to make up for lost time, bringing back some of the romance that has been missing from your relationships or some of the fun that's been missing from your life.

Taurus April 20 to May 20

At the same time that Mercury and Mars are both in their final full weeks in your career sector, with Mercury due to leave next Tuesday and Mars next Wednesday, the Sun is due to leave on Saturday, with a sense of urgency already kicking in. Between now and Mars' departure from your career sector next Wednesday he and the Sun and Mercury will all align with Neptune, for the last time in your career sector in your lifetime, making this a defining time when it comes to cementing your professional goals and dreams.

Gemini May 21 to June 20

The conditions at the start of the week hide how close you actually are to a new surge on the professional front, making it important to make the most of the time you have this week to step back, get your bearings and soak in as many of life's experiences as possible. At the start of the week the Sun, Mercury and Mars are still working as a team in your sector of travel, adventure, learning and discovery, but with the Sun leaving on Saturday and Mercury and Mars next week there is already a sense of urgency developing.

Cancer June 21 to July 22

With a Full Moon in your income sector on Friday, Mercury and Mars leaving your financial sector next week and the Sun on Saturday, this is going to be a week where money is a major factor. It's also a week when a lot of your own passions are being stirred and it's where you've been stuck in a rut or simply going through the motions that you're likely to rebel.

Leo July 23- August 22

It's a Full Moon in your sign on Friday, in what is a big week on the relationship front and also on the financial and work fronts that brings you to the halfway point in your solar year. A lot of water has passed under the bridge since the Sun was in your sign and it's at this halfway point that you're able to look back at where you've been and forward to where you're going, along with a chance to revise your expectations to match the changes that have taken place since your last birthday.

Virgo August 23 to September 22

As Mercury and Mars spend their last full week in your work sector and with the Sun due to leave on Saturday, a lot of things are coming together and falling into place. Where your expectations are now is not necessarily where you thought they would be before this journey began, with following the things that drew you to take action just as likely to reinforce that you've been in the right place all along as they are to open new doors.

Libra September 23 to October 22

Since Jupiter left your work sector last month things have eased back on the job front, allowing you to focus on other areas of your life and on your personal life in particular. Yet as forces on the home, romantic and relationship fronts fall into place and with a Full Moon on Friday giving your social life and your personal and professional networking a push start, patient work forces are waiting in the wings.

Scorpio October 23 to November 21

While there is still a lot of focus on your home and family situation this week, a Full Moon on Friday comes with a reminder that a new professional wave can't be held back much longer. It's this Full Moon that is going to directly challenge the Sun during his last full day in your home and family sector, bringing to a head any work/life balance issues, allowing you to get them sorted now, while you can.

Sagittarius November 22 to December 21

This is a week where you're really able to get your thinking cap on, work on both your personal and professional passions with a lot more creativity and where the more you can multitask the more you'll love it. There is a lot taking place on a mental level this week, with your mind likely to be working on multiple things at the same time and it's also a week where communication is vital.

Capricorn December 22 to January 19

A Full Moon in your financial sector on Friday and the fact that the Sun, Mercury and Mars are moving into the home straight on the income front, is going to put a lot of focus on your money game this week. Before the Sun leaves your income sector on Saturday and Mercury and Mars next week, all 3 will align with Neptune, planet of dreams and fantasies for the last time in your income sector in your lifetime.

Aquarius January 20 to February 18

At some point during your birthday month the Sun will be confronted by a Full Moon in your relationship sector, that has the dual role of bringing things to a head on the relationship front and making sure that you don't move into your new solar year on autopilot. That Full Moon falls on Friday, as the Sun spends his last full day in your sign.

Pisces February 19 to March 20

As you move into the new week your focus is still on the past. That's because at the start of the week the Sun, Mercury and Mars are still in a reflective and nostalgic part of your chart and winding down your current solar year and your current Mercury and Mars cycles your focus isn't just on the past, you're also likely to be running on empty. If you're tired, feeling run down and your new mantra is 'I can't do this anymore', then practice some extreme self care.

Special To The Lion's Eye

Some of the most popular comedians in the world today are masters of stand-up comedy. They make us laugh at their jokes and puns, jokes often at the expense of people or events around them. Where the heart of true comedy lies, however, is in the art and practice of Improvised Comedy.

Penn State Brandywine's Improv Club, RANDOM, is a school organization comprised of students who enjoy and excel at improvised comedy. The games we hold at RANDOM meetings range from 'Stand-Sit-Bend' (a skit in which each of three participants must act in one of the title positions, all without being in the same position as another) to 'World's Worst' (several players impersonate several of the world's worst people or things, such as the world's worst neighbor or store employee). Most of RANDOM's games and skits are derived from the popular television show Whose Line Is It Anyway? which aired both in England and later in The United States in the late 90's to 2001.

Meetings are held in Main 101, Brandywine's spacious Performing Arts room. Our exercises in hilarity are held during Common Hour on Wednesdays; anyone is welcome to attend, whether they choose to participate in a skit or game or to simply be entertained by the RANDOM's members. Recently, the Improv Club held an Open House Performance in the Lion's Den. This consisted of several games and a skit (all well-received) that were performed in front of many students. RANDOM looks forward to holding more Open House Performances in the future, as our mission is to entertain our audience with a show that everyone will enjoy.

Anyone with questions or that is interested in joining the club can contact a RANDOM member at RANDOMatPSU@gmail.com

Brandywine students hope to entertain the masses with improv comedy.
