Farm Show Needs To Expand, Says Dr. Henning

HARRISBURG. — Weather and hazardous road conditions that cut attendance at the 1956 Pennsylvania Farm Show served to emphasize the need for additions to physical facilities in the 14-acre building, Dr. William L. Henning, chairman of the Farm Show Commission, declared as the show closed.

Friday's attendance was estimated at 60,000, making a total of 580,000 for the week compared with 675,000 last year and 540,000 two years ago when the week opened with a heavy snow.

300 Commercial Exhibitors

"In effect, reduced attendance was a blessing in disguise for commercial exhibitors and visitors," Dr. Henning said. "Except for the big Wednesday, the visitors saw the show in comfort. The more than 300 commercial exhibitors, the folks who support the show, had a better opportunity to talk with prospective customers."

This means that exhibitors need more space for their displays, Dr. Henning explained, adding that more than 100 had to be turned away for lack of room this year.

Replace Utilities

"The Farm Show Commission is asking the General State Authority to allocate $2,871,000 for improvements and additions at the Farm Show," he said. "This would provide a 3-story building for more exhibit space, a new cafeteria and dormitories for farm youth exhibiting at the show, and for State Police assigned to the show."

It also would replace worn-out heating, electric and water line systems, replace a temporary sheet steel building used for horses and beef cattle, and expand other livestock areas."

Trucking Firm To Honor VoAg Essay Entrants

Three vocational agriculture students at Southern Lancaster County Joint Community High school will be honored next Wednesday in ceremonies awarding prizes for best essays submitted on "Full Utilization of Our Land Resources Through Truck and Bus Transportation."

Sponsors are B. S. Warfel & Sons, Herr's Motor Express, both of Quarryville, and David "Stony" Eschbach of RD Holtwood.

First prize is choice of one feeding steer or heifer, value not to exceed $150, presented by Herr's Motor Express; second, $75, to be used on a farm project of winner's choice, from Warfels, and third $50 to be used also on a farm project, from Mr. Eschbach. Jack Owen, head of the Solanco vo-ag department, will supervise each project.

Judges of the essays are Carl Reynolds, Jr., Quarryville borough; Mrs. Richard Maule, secretary of the Southern Lancaster County Community Fair, and C. Wallace Abel, business manager of Octoraro Newspapers.

Presentation will be made at a high school assembly program. In the morning, Amos "Marty" Ward, 34, Quarryville, will receive a citation from the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association for outstanding cooperation with the group's 1955 Safety Patrol. O. D. "Mike" Shipley, PMTA safety director, will make the award. Sgt. Carl S. Pike will present his "Safety Magic show at the morning meeting, under sponsorship of Herr's Motor Express.
