Long Bow and Arrow Legal in Taking Carp

HARRISBURG, Pa. — The long bow and arrow is now a legal device for taking carp in Pennsylvania. The announcement was made by William Voigt, Jr., Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The signature of Governor George Leader to the "Archery-Carp" Bill amends Section 50, clause (d) of the Fish Code by adding — "Nothing in this section shall prohibit the use of long bows and arrows for taking or killing carp."

The bill had the support of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportmen's Clubs. Its enactment provides an additional means of recreation. It is also looked upon as a possible means of helping in the control of a species of fish that is not a totally desirable tenant of many of the Commonwealth's waters. With the passage of the bill, Pennsylvania became the 25th State to legalize taking carp a-la-Robin Hood.

In addition to explaining that a fishing license is required to engage in the sport, Voigt cautioned that the March 14-April 15 fishing ban on waters of the State stocked with trout extends to bow and arrow fishing.

When a man hangs out his Shingle . . .

Thousands of them started that way . . . with a hole in the wall and a slab of cedar, hung over the canopied boardwalk.

They were men of every sort, in businesses of every sort. And most of them had some things in common, like vision, initiative, and faith in the future.

But each that lasted had still an extra quality in common with the other—an acute consciousness of the responsibilities he assumed when he went into business.

He knew that the day he "hung out his shingle" he did more than announce a new venture—he announced his willingness to plight his future with his community and with his neighbors . . . to live with them, to work with them, and to serve them.

Now the signs have changed some. But though neon has supplanted the cedar slab and the modern store front has replaced the canopied boardwalk, the philosophy of the successful remains the same.

It's the philosophy that admits to the responsibilities assumed when a man "hangs out his shingle"—the responsibilities to his neighbors, to his community, and to his country.

It's the philosophy to which we, as your John Deere dealer, subscribe.
