Q. I am having a lot of trouble getting action out of the insurance company after an accident in which my car was damaged. What would be a fair and reasonable time for claimant to be without use of car before bringing suit? And to what extent are insurers liable for transportation expenses while my car is out of service? C. F.

A. The Statute of Limitations for bringing a suit for damages to a motor vehicle is generally six years. However, this does not mean that a person could claim loss of use for that period of time. Loss of use generally is not a recoverable item of damages in an automobile collision except where the vehicle damaged is a commercial vehicle or where the vehicle is necessary for business purposes or where monetary damages result because of the time taken for repairing the vehicle.

The Courts have said many times what is a fair and reasonable time is dependent on the circumstances of the particular case and generally speaking, one's own insurance company is not liable for transportation expenses while the car is being repaired. If it is the insurance company of the person who was negligent in the accident, then the extent of its liability is gov-

Good Neighbor Act At DeLong's Farm

Six friends and neighbors Tuesday moved in with tractors and plows to help Irvin DeLong, R1 Quarryville, catch up with his spring farm work. Mr DeLong had been ill and later suffered a sprained ankle

Among those helping were Glenn Myer, R1 Kirkwood, Stanley Kreider, R1 Drumore, Leon, Everett and Clair Kreider, and Elam Mull, all of R1 Quarryville, members of the Home Builders Class of the Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren

Also assisting was Mr DeLong's hired man, Harry McCulligan of R1 Quarryville

erned by the above; if any of the above qualifications are met, then generally speaking, the insurance company is liable for the transportation expenses while the car is being repaired.

However, the refusal of the insurance company to repair the vehicle is not sufficient ground for you to delay having the vehicle repaired and then claim loss of use during the time negotiations are pending with the insurance company

Q I live in a part of town where there are 19 dogs running loose and barking all night. Is there anything that can be done to stop this legally, so that we can get some rest? L. F.

A. You can bring a bill in equity against the owners of the 19 dogs to compel them to confine their dogs to their own properties at night This may alleviate the situation somewhat but, if the dogs still bark at night while they are confined on the properties of their owners, I do not think there is much you can do about it, because dogs are domestic animals and it is perfectly lawful to own them and it is a recognized fact that they bark at times, particularly at night.

LanChester Chorus Sings At Hensel Hall

By LF Staff Reporter

Around 500 persons attended the Saturday night concert of the LanChester Chorus, which includes many Lancaster and Chester County rural residents, under sponsorship of the Lancaster General Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association for benefit of the Nurses' Scholarship Fund at Hensel Hall on the Franklin and Marshall campus

Featured with the chorus was Jack Behrens, Lancaster, piano student at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, who gave two programs of piano selections, including a suite of his own composition.

Three Chopin Numbers

Opening the program was a group of four numbers by the Chorus, under direction of Dorothea H Brueninger, assistant director: I Got Rhythm by Gershwin, While We're Young by Wilder, Love Is Sweeping the Country by Gershwin and Deep River, which featured Pickering Reynolds of Quarryville as soloist.

Five piano numbers were given by Mr Behrens in his first appearance, Soaring by Schumann, and three compositions of Chopin: Nocturne in F-Sharp Major, Waltz in A Flat, Opus 42; Etude No 2 in A-Flat from Trois Nouvelles Etudes, and Winter Wind, Chopin's Etude in A Minor, Opus 25.

Religious music featured the second appearance of the LanChester Chorus: The Lord Is My Shepherd by Clokey; The Righteous Shall Be in Everlasting Remembrance by Tschernokoff; When Children Pray, by Fenner, O, Holy Lord, by Tschai-kowsky, and Malotte's The Lord's Prayer.

Original Composition

In Part IV, the chorus sang Porter's Just One of Those Things; two selections from Rodger's The King and I, We Kiss in a Shadow and Hello, Young Lovers; Mr. Reynolds, accompanied by Richard W Wright, sang For You Alone by Geehl, and the chorus closed the section with Rose's Our Waltz.

Paul Mount Wins Trip to Iowa as Winning Dealer

Paul H. Mount, partner in Conestoga Farm Service, Quarryville, Pa., just recently returned from Des Moines Iowa on a trip sponsored by Gash-Stull Company, Chester, Pa., Ford Distributor, and the Tractor and Implement Division of Ford Motor Company for winning dealers of the 1955 "Harvesting Equipment Campaign" About 38 dealers were represented throughout the United States, for outstanding sales in harvesting equipment.

Visits Implement Plant

Mr Mount said the tour included the implement plant where they are presently manufacturing corn pickers for the fall season and where they also manufacture Ford combines, grain drills and other harvesting equipment This was formerly the Woods Brothers plant in Des Moines.

The group also toured the Meredith Publishing Company which publishes Successful Farming and Better Homes and Gardens magazines, and the Firestone rubber plant

Tour of State College

An interesting side trip was made to the state agricultural college at Ames Iowa where the visitors learned about atomic research tests and the use of atomic energy as applied to agriculture, also a trip to their agricultural engineering center where they saw new developments in equipment and new farming methods.

Vo-Ag Classroom

Essential to major high schools in the Garden Spot is the vocational agriculture department. At Pequea Valley High School, the vo-ag department is found in the wing housing the auditorium and gymnasium. A classroom, storage room and shop are found nearby to the closely related industrial arts department.

Opening the fifth section was an original composition in three parts by Mr Behrens, Suite for Piano (1955), which included a march, song and finale; Debussy's Minstrels, Debussy's The Engulfed Cathedral, and Liszt's La Campanella.

Closing the program were four numbers by the Chorus, The Night Is Young by Suesse, two selections from Carousel by Rodgers, If I Loved You, and June Is Busting Out All Over, concluding with Gershwin's Of Thee I Sing Earl Pickel of Gap gave a tenor solo, Friml's Gannina Mia, Donald L Trostle is the LanChester Chorus director

So far, nobody has devised a way to develop a business without somebody putting in hard work.
