

Steam engines have joined the memorabilia of American farming at the Landis Valley Farm Museum. Here are the two ancients donated by J. H. Brubaker, Rohrerstown, one (in front) a 16-ton Avery purchased by him in 1901. Immediately behind in the warehouse (with flared smokestack) is a wooden-wheeled Peerless. (Lancaster Farming Staff Photo).

Fulton Grange 66 Shown Slides Of South Pole Trip

Fulton Grange No. 66 met on Monday evening with Master Charles G. McSparran presiding.

A letter was received from the Pennsylvania State Grange Secretary, J. Collins McSparran, expressing his appreciation to the Granges of the State for backing bills in legislature.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Wood announced that the Youth Committee of Oxford Grange will hold a dance at their hall on June 15 with Fulton Grange members as guests.

The legislative committee reviewed some bills and had applications available for the gas refund.

On June 4 married members presented a program and treated the single members.

Miss Mabel Brabson opened the literary program with group singing and a quiz. Slides were shown of an expedition to the South Pole by Mrs. Nancy Lefever. The program closed with singing and games.

The next meeting will be held on June 11, with the home economics committee in charge of the literary program in observance of Dairy Month.

TOMATO PLANTS COSTLY

With replacements necessary since late frosts hit a good section of Lancaster County, growers face an additional expense this year. Prices ranged from $7.50 as highest, later tapering off to $5.50 per thousand.

John A. Breneman Herd Classified

John A. Breneman, Willow Street, has recently had his Guernsey herd classified for type by L. O. Colebank, Knoxville, Tenn.

A complete analysis shows that of his 28 cows classified, 10 were rated Very Good, nine Desirable and nine Acceptable.

Eight daughters of Willow Bend's Duke were classified. Two rated Very Good, five Desirable and one Acceptable.

Five daughters of Clara's Point Thor were classified. Three rated Very Good and two acceptable.

Four daughters of Curtis Candy Noble Curtiss were classified. One rated Very Good, one Desirable and two Acceptable.

Price rises indicate inflation, economist says.

It's The Law

"It's the Law" with simple answers is offered by LANCASTER FARMING in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Bar Association. General interest questions are welcomed, and will be answered as soon as possible. Letters must be signed. Answer will not be published on a specified, requested day. Questions cannot be answered by mail, and LANCASTER FARMING will reject any inquiry which is not of general public interest. Address all inquiries to "It's the Law," LANCASTER FARMING Quarryville, Pa.

Q Is there a way to make out a will without the presence of a lawyer?

R. G.

A. A will prepared without the advice of a lawyer may be legal but wills prepared by laymen have in the long run caused more expensive litigation, more miscarriages of the testator's real intention, and more bitterness in families, than any other type of Will.

Q I have a written agreement with a contractor (not notarized or witnessed by anyone) to have him build a house for me, to my plans and specifications, and I have a down payment of several thousand dollars on the house. The house is now finished and I am not satisfied with several things, one being a cellar that leaks water and I wish to have my down payment refunded. Is the contractor legally allowed to keep my money if I do not accept the house?

R. S.

A. The contractor is entitled to the contract price less a set-off for your damages caused by any negligent or willful breach of performance of the contractor. The measure of damages would be the cost of having the unsatisfactory work repaired, and you would be justified in deducting such amount from the total due the contractor. If your damages are great, you might be able to treat them as a total breach of the contract, thus giving you the right to sue for the return of your down payment. Such recourse would be unusual, however, and you would probably be limited to a recovery of your damages.

Q. I am at a church home. I have been here for a year and a half. Up until now there were two guests in the room with me who were quiet and I could sleep. Now the board of the home has put a guest in my room who has a television set. I do not look at it and it annoys me. Is there a law to prevent putting a television set in a room where there are other guests?

H. S.

A. There certainly is no specific law pertaining to the unfortunate situation which you describe. Perhaps your best remedy would be a plea to the governing board of your home, describing the annoyance which the television set causes you and requesting that you be permitted to move to another room. Perhaps you could exchange places with another guest in the home who would enjoy the television set more than you.
