

What's Your Choice?

One of the highlights of any livestock field day is the judging contest, where perfect scores are hard to obtain, where difference with the official judges often

Lotwaerrick And Poultry Queens To Be Named At Pa. Dutch Days

Such old-fashioned Pennsylvania Dutch attributes as being able to speak the Dutch dialect, ability to cook up a batch of apple butter, and excellence in farm chores will weigh heavily in favor of the two girls who will wear the regal crowns of the State Lotwaerrick (Apple Butter) Queen and the Pennsylv-vania Poultry Queen at Pennsylvania Dutch Days, Aug 23 through 26, at Hershey.

The girl chosen to be Lotwaerrick queen will not only have to prove her familiarity with the Dutch dialect and show that she can cook apple butter, but she will also be asked to demonstrate her poise and mental acuity by answering a question regarding current events.

The Apple Butter Queen will be crowned on Thursday, Aug 23, at 7 p m in the park bandshell. The program will be conducted by G Gilbert Snyder, Robesonia, who is better known in Pennsylvania Dutch circles as the Wunnernaus.

Coronation of the Pennsylvania Poultry Queen will climax the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation's day long series of events on Saturday, Aug. 25.

Fifteen central Pennsylvania county queens will compete for the honor, with judges basing their choice on participation in farm chores, beauty, educational activities and personality.

Contestants will pass before the judges at 3 p m in Hershey Stadium, with the coronation of the queen scheduled for 7 o'clock in the evening.

operating under a supersedeas pending the appeal. The firm has paid fees in question and will be given a license immediately. Nineteen farms were affected in the Lykens case which was used to test the law.

"There can be little doubt," John A Smith, one of the three commissioners, said, "about the movement toward cold wall tanks as an action against the interests of the small dairy farmer, just as all movements toward farm mechanization have been in recent years.

"Unfortunately, many small farmers are war veterans who took up farming at the end of the war," Smith declared. "The initial investment in bulk tanks demands substantial increases in the capital investment of farmers and result in higher costs in production of milk. Farmers are bound to demand higher prices for milk to compensate them for these higher costs."

"On the other hand, dealers have been able in many cases to reduce operating costs by the elimination of expensive can washers and collateral equipment. The decision of the high court, therefore, supports the contention of the commission that dealers rather than farmers are the beneficiaries of this movement toward bulk tanks," Smith concluded. "We are happy to have our views sustained."

Chances are you buy your chicks with great care to get a heavy-laying strain. Do you feed them after they grow up to get all the eggs they're bred to produce?

Poultrymen who buy high-producing strains have found that Purina HIGH-EFFICIENCY Laying Chows help them get lots of eggs per bag of feed. Also to help keep heavy-laying birds in good condition which helps hold down mortality. Most poultrymen who have tried Purina HIGH-EFFICIENCY Chows have found that they got so many more eggs per bag that they LOWERED THEIR FEED COST PER DOZEN EGGS. This was true even though Purina cost a little more per bag than lower-efficiency feeds.

Try Purina for several weeks. Keep an accurate record. See for yourself how much money you save. We'll be glad to help you keep records and figure your costs.
