Q. Does the Pennsylvania School Law put any limit on how far children must walk to the school bus? Our children have to walk a mile and a half and be at the bus stop at 7:45 a.m. — F B

A. There is no requirement under Pennsylvania law that School Boards furnish children with free transportation to and from school. But, if a child must travel two miles or more by the nearest public highway to school and no transportation is provided, his attendance in most districts is not compulsory.

However, if transportation is provided it need not be door-to-door. It is sufficient if the child is picked up at a shelter no more than 1 1/2 miles from a point on the highway nearest his house, and it is immaterial how far his home is from the highway. Thus, if your child must walk 1 mile from his house to the nearest highway and then 1 1/2 miles to the bus stop, the School Board has provided enough transportation to make his attendance at school compulsory.

In certain situations where transportation is not provided the child may be assigned to a more convenient school in another school district. It should be remembered that the education of a child is the responsibility of both the parent and the State, and cooperation between the two will best promote the welfare of the child.

Q. My wife deserted me and our four children three months ago. Can I still have her arrested or is it too late? She left me with all her bills. Do I have to pay them? G P A.

A. There is nothing for which you can have your wife arrested in the situation you have described. Eventually, you can get a divorce on the ground of desertion, but the desertion must persist for two years before the action can be initiated.

If the bills are for "necessaries," that is, items necessary to her support and maintenance, like food, essential clothing and medical bills, you must pay them. If they are for luxuries, you cannot be held liable. Your attorney can advise you more specifically after he is familiar with the facts involved.

One young designer has created a line of wool dresses along classic lines, in dark and light basic colors, that can be changed in appearance completely by changing the collar, cuffs, belt or jeweled studs to tailored studs.

Each dress comes with a pair of change-about accessories. The girl with imagination and a way with a needle can make even more changes possible. These dresses sell for around fifty dollars and are worth every penny.

This change-about business has become very popular. It all began with the basic black dress and the craze for costume jewelry. This was a good many years back and yet the working girl in large cities is still taking advantage of this trick to look glamorous for an important date even when there has been no time to go home to change. The change can be brought about by changing costume jewelry.

All shades of scarlet are important in the fashion picture this fall and winter. The red velvet shoe will be worn with all kinds of cocktail clothes. Along with the return of the velvet shoe comes a demand for crystal jewelry of all kinds. The envelope bag for evening is a must.

The velvet evening suit will be popular for all ages. Many are trimmed with satin, heavy, imported lace or fur. It is never wise to economize when you are buying a garment made of velvet. If you can't afford a good suit, made of the best quality fabric, you will be wise to settle for something else.

If you have a really good figure, get a sleek jersey sheath cut high in front and low in back. This is something new and very effective on a young girl.

Methodist Church In Quarryville 36 Years Old

Memorial Methodist Church, Quarryville, will celebrate its 36th anniversary, Sunday, Nov. 11, in two services, the first at 10:45 a. m., the second at 7:30 p. m.

In a message from Simon Snyder, chairman of the finance committee and the Rev. Herbert R. Howells, pastor, members were advised the Lancaster Chorus will present a concert of sacred music in the evening service.

Former members are especially invited, Rev. Howells urges. "We love our church. The present house of worship was built 36 years ago," a letter to members tells. For his sermon subject, the pastor will speak on "What Do These Stones Mean?"

A brass quartet from Solanco High School will assist in the music.

Special "birthday gifts" are being requested to liquidate the debt of $4700 which remains from the recent church improvement program.

Safety Important In Scatter Rugs

Handy scatter rugs need not be home hazards. Rubber jar rings sewed on the backing prevent skidding, according to Bonnie Dale Sansom, extension home management specialist of the Pennsylvania State University.

A rubber sponge pad adds a luxurious feeling and makes the rug wear longer. Rugs may be bought with latex or rubber-coated backing, or a commercial solution can be painted on the rugs you already have.
